National Layoff of Men Set for Monday; Breakdown of Figures: 56 Idle in City, 91 in County

Two City Projects

City Home Improvement and Work on Fire Alarm to End

Five WPA projects will be closed down and 147 men on the WPA payrolls in Kingston and Ulster county will be laid off on Monday as the result of the general layoff of WPA workers throughout the nation.

Of the number of WPA workers laid off, 86 are residents of Kingston and 91 in the towns in the county.

Starting Monday there will be 559 WPA workers carried on the city's payroll.

The total number of WPA workers in county and city commencing Monday will be 1,037, instead of 1,184 carried on the payrolls before the cut went into effect this afternoon.

Two City Projects
In Kingston the two projects that will be closed down are the City Home improvement project and the extension and renovation to the city's fire alarm system.

The three county projects to be closed are the Poughkeepsie road in the town of Lloyd, the street improvement project in the village of Saugerties, and the stone quarry at Ruby.

County Manager Arthur F. Hallinan, of the Works Progress Administration, said that in other words no work would be done on the five projects to be closed down this afternoon until the other WPA projects now underway are completed. When work is finished on these other projects the five closed projects will be picked up and work resumed on them.

Hallinan Gives Reason
County Manager Hallinan when seen at the WPA office at Strand and Hasbrouck avenue this morning said that the reason for the layoff was due to insufficient funds which Congress had failed to provide.

Money Loss Here
The county manager said that the men who are laid off the WPA payrolls will have to be supported on relief by the city and towns, and he estimated it would cost Kingston and the county $35 a month per man laid off.

The total cost to Kingston to support the 56 men laid off was estimated by Manager Hallinan as approximately $2,000 a month, while in the county the cost would be approximately $3,185 per month.

Manager Hallinan estimated that the total cost to the city and county to support the 147 men laid off would amount to approximately $5,145 a month.

Cost to Business
The layoff also meant, he said, a loss to business of approximately $3,640 in the city, and $9,515 to the towns, or a total cost to the county and city merchants of $9,550 a month, which represented the amount of money on the payrolls of the men laid off, and which they would not have to spend with the merchants by reason of the loss of their jobs.

Plattekill Fire Officers
Plattekill, April 8.—The Plattekill fire department elected officers for the coming year at a meeting Thursday evening in the fire house. Edward Newirth was re-elected as chief engineer; first assistant, Theodore Doski; second assistant, John Odell; president, Martin Kopaski; secretary and treasurer, Earl Hasbrouck; sergeant-at-arms, Harry Edler.

Cannon Suspended
Detective Chief Assigned to Geoghan's Office Said to Have Taken $1,070

New York, April 8 (AP)—The chief of detectives assigned to the office of District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan was under suspension today by order of Mayor LaGuardia, who said the officer had received $1,070 from Frank Ericson, a "notorious bookmaker."

The officer, Acting Police Lieutenant Martin A. Cannon, faced a departmental trial on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer as the result of a report submitted to the mayor by City Commissioner of Investigation William Herlands.

Exhibiting a number of checks drawn on Ericson's special account and payable to Cannon, LaGuardia said he was "not at all sure" the money represented race-track winnings by the police officer.

Engaged

The engagement of Frances Weir, (above) niece of Ernest Weir, Pittsburgh steel executive, has been announced to Allan Sheldon III, of Detroit. Miss Weir, whose home is in Steubenville, O., attended school at Greenwich, Conn., and Bronxville, N. Y., while her fiancé is a Yale graduate.

Benedictine Ball Arrangements All Ready, Groups Say

Purcell's Orchestra to Give Concert Starting 8 P. M., After Which Program Will Be Presented

Work of arranging for the annual Benedictine Hospital Easter Monday Ball has been completed by the various committees, it was announced today, and an encouraging response from the public is expected.

Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman will open the program with a formal welcome. Attorney Andrew J. Cook will introduce the Very Rev. Martin L. Drury, pastor of St. Mary's Church, who is also president of the Board of Managers; and the Rev. John P. McCaffrey, pastor of St. Joseph's Church.

Doors Open at 7 P. M.
The doors will open at 7 o'clock and from 8 to 8:30 o'clock a concert will be given by Paul Purcell's orchestra. Following the concert the bill of entertainment, featuring radio and screen stars, under direction of Alfred Skea, will be presented.

The orchestra of Paul Zucca will alternate with that of Mr. Purcell for the dancing which will begin after the entertainment.

As is the usual custom, an attractive reception circle will be arranged at one side, where the guests will be received by the president and general chairman of the ball, Mrs. Joseph H. Garland, and the past presidents of the auxiliary. Palms will create a setting for the reception circle, and will also be used as a stage decoration.

Concert Program

Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $4,454,533,381.60; expenditures, $6,980,284,723.96, including $2,384,707,569.38 of emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures, $2,525,981,142.36; gross debt, $40,044,256,438.75, an increase of $1,689,590.63 over the previous day; gold assets, $15,308,771,193.96.

Federal Men Study Chichester Plant; Subsidy Rumored

Unofficial Reports Advance Possibility Federal Loan Might Be Made to Continue Work

Labor Ownership

Loan Thought Based Upon Idea Employees Might Own Business

Agents of the federal government, supposedly sent to investigate the possibilities of continuing the former Schwarzwald furniture plant at Chichester, have been making inquiries in the village, it was learned today.

It has been unofficially reported that the agents are considering a plan which would make it possible for the employees of the factory to continue its operation with the aid of a federal loan.

Ownership Opportunity
Such a loan, in effect, it is understood, would offer an opportunity for the employees eventually to become owners of the plant.

In February Willis Rappleyea of Lexington, Green county, took over operation of the plant following attempts to auction off the factory and its holdings which virtually included the entire village.

A bid of $30,500 was the highest offered when first attempts were made at auctioning the property to meet a loan of $25,500. Later proceedings were held in New York and it was at that time an agreement was reached with Special Master Peter B. Olney and Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard to have Mr. Rappleyea take over the plant for three months.

Operating Several Weeks
The factory has been in operation for several weeks now, and some of the villagers report it appears to be doing well under the temporary management of Mr. Rappleyea.

The investigation of the federal men has been carried on with apparent secrecy and the full extent of their mission has not been made known.

Police Are Asked To Locate Cure To Locate Cure

Pine Hill Youth, Student At Alabama U., Is Sought in East

Police from several states east of the Mississippi river have been called in to locate Howard G. Cure, missing University of Alabama student, who has not been heard from by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Cure, of Pine Hill, since March 8, when the student disappeared from college.

Local police officials have been asked by the lad's parents to assist in the search.

Youth 18 Years Old
The youth, 18 years old, disappeared from the college on March 8 and since then his parents have heard nothing from him. Authorities have been asked to aid in the search. No information as to where the lad may have been obtained.

A graduate of Margaretville High School, he had been attending the University of Alabama for the past year. Howard is described as 5 feet 11 inches in height, 125 pounds, blond hair, blue eyes and slight build. He habitually wore a gold class ring of Margaretville High School with the school insignia, a grey hat and dark blue suit.

Los Angeles, April 8 (AP)—Seven persons were prostrated by heat as the mercury reached 84 degrees here yesterday. The day before it was 91. A break in the unseasonable temperatures was forecast today.

Pepper and Other Democrats Show First Signs of Opposition on Relief Fund Fight

Washington, April 8 (AP)—Trying doggedly to delay a senate vote on the $100,000,000 relief bill until Monday, Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) said today that some of his colleagues were "beginning to hear from home" and might change their minds over the week-end about his proposal to increase the appropriation $50,000,000.

He conceded, however, there was little chance that the larger sum, which President Roosevelt has requested repeatedly, would be approved. Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, has agreed with Democratic economy advocates and Republicans on the house-approved $100,000,000.

In their fight for the full amount asked by the president, Pepper and a small band of other administration supporters are opposing the Democratic leadership for the first time.

Barkley tried in vain yesterday to end prolonged argument by unanimous agreement. Pepper blocked a proposal to vote late yesterday, and Senator McNary (R-Ore.) in turn rejected the Florida senator's suggestion that the chamber agree to vote at 3 p. m. Monday.

The Democratic leader then called the first Saturday meeting of the session.

"You can be certain there will be no vote today," Pepper told the floor. "I have to do all the talking myself."

Senator Adams (D-Colo.), floor manager for the relief bill, predicted the proposed increase would

In Good Position

United States in Better Legal Spot to Protest Than Other Nations

Washington, April 8 (AP)—The administration debated today whether to call Mussolini's attention to his apparent violation of the Kellogg anti-war pact, signed by both Italy and the nation he had invaded, Albania.

In view of action taken by this government several weeks ago, following Hitler's seizure of Czechoslovakia, it was thought likely in authoritative quarters that some effort would be made to demonstrate the administration's opposition to the invasion of Albania.

Hull in Contact
Secretary of State Hull kept in close touch with President Roosevelt, communicating to him by telephone the latest news from a half dozen European capitals.

Mr. Roosevelt is vacationing in Warm Springs, Ga.

The United States is in a better legal position to protest Italy's action than are Britain and France. Those nations, along with Italy and Japan, signed a declaration reached by a council of their ambassadors in Paris in 1921, recognizing that the "violation of Albania's frontiers would constitute a menace for the strategic security of Italy."

The United States withdrew from the council some months before.

Weather Dampens Style Lane Ardor

But Fashion Arbiters Say Nothing Less Than Rain Will Stop Parade

New York, April 8 (AP)—A forecast of cool weather today put a slight damper on feminine enthusiasm for the traditional Easter parade on Fifth avenue, style lane of the metropolis.

Spring zephyrs will whip the skirts of harder souls who dare temperatures ranging from 30 to 45 degrees.

But fashion authorities—who insist style-conscious women will brave any kind of weather so long as it isn't wet—predicted Miladies, topped with bright bonnet and flanked by best beau, would venture forth in great numbers.

The weather bureau, plagued by the seasonal epidemic of phone calls, said skies would be cloudy but promised no ruinous rain would fall.

A "bullish" Easter sentiment, boosted by two days of spring-like temperatures, was reflected in a 30 per cent increase in airline bookings and an 11 per cent pickup in railroad traffic over the 1938 season.

Nearly 6,000 persons boarded 12 cruise ships for Easter trips to Bermuda, the Bahamas and Jamaica. The Atlantic Clipper had a capacity booking of 60 passengers for its week-end Bermuda flight.

Special services at historic city churches attracted many visitors. A crowd of 10,000 worshippers thronged St. Patrick's Cathedral at Good Friday ceremonies yesterday, and more than 10,000 were expected at Easter sunrise services in the Central Park Mall.

Tennessee Checks Purchased Paroles

Nashville, Tenn., April 8 (AP)—Tennessee officials, amazed over a story of how prison inmates "bought" their way to freedom through "ink eradicator" changes in the record files, today began a case history check of 500 paroled convicts.

"We don't know how many prisoners have been given their freedom or paroles on altered prison records," Acting-Warden Glenn Swafford said, "but we have found a large number and probably will find a lot more before the check is completed." He said he had not fixed the blame on anyone as yet.

Swafford also disclosed another prison "racket" he said would be investigated. Certain trustees, he said, who learned the parole board had acted favorably upon a petition, would go to the prison or due to be released and promise him his freedom on a parole for a specified amount of money.

Explaining how he discovered the fraudulent "fixing" of official records, Swafford said he received a letter in March from the clerk's office "telling me that a certain prisoner was to go out on March 22."

"It seemed to me that the date set out was wrong, so I checked it against other records and I found that the prisoner was not due to go out until 1940."

"I then discovered that an ink eradicator which left no trace had been used in changing dates on the records. I also learned that prisoners paid from $10 to $150 to procure alterations of their records."

Italy Strengthens Anglo-French Hold Over Mediterranean

Seizure of Albania Means End of Italy as Islam's Protector, French Official Says

Paris, April 8 (AP)—Italy's invasion of the Moslem kingdom of Albania was reported in Paris today to have so strengthened French and British empires in the Mediterranean that it may prove a boomerang for Premier Mussolini.

"This means the end of Italy as the self-styled protector of Islam," said a high official in the French colonial office.

In Syria where French failure to push through a 1936 Syrian independence treaty led to disorders and strikes which French troops had to quell, the reaction was immediate.

Scathing Attack
Faris El Khouri, president of the Syrian Parliament and outstanding leader of the nationalist bloc which has led the anti-French agitation, issued a scathing attack on Italy. He indicated his bloc would now cooperate with the French.

"Italy's pretensions of protecting our Moslems now reminds us of the story of the lion which defends the prey he does not intend to divide with others," El Khouri said.

Even as Italian troops fought their way into the little Mohammedan state on the Adriatic, the Italian station at Tripoli, Libya, broadcast an appeal in Arabic for Moslems in Tunisia, France's protectorate, to make a demonstration next Sunday against the French. French observers interpreted the broadcast as a call for an Arab revolt.

Numerous Demonstrations
Immediately after the broadcast, there were a number of anti-Italian demonstrations by Arabs in Tunisian cities, however, and various Moslem organizations telegraphed declarations of loyalty to the French resident general's office in Tunis.

Arab sources in Paris said Italy's Albanian invasion would "cancel" much of her recent anti-French and anti-British propaganda in Moslem parts of the French and British empires.

Part of the Paris press declared, however, that to solidify this reaction, Britain and France must do more than "shrug their shoulders" at Italian aggression.

No War Set-Off
As a whole the French press did not view Italy's attack on Albania as something which in itself would set off the war Europe fears.

One commentator pointed out that Italy, by an agreement of the conference of ambassadors of World War allies in 1921, became the "policeman of Albania" with the right to intervene.

But almost the entire press urged the government to rush negotiations to solidify the eastern "stop Hitler" bloc.

Albanian Ruler's Wife Has Tortuous Trip Through Mountains With Her Two-Day Old Son

QUEEN GERALDINE

Athens, April 8 (AP)—Queen Geraldine of Albania, who fled Tirana with her three-days-old son as Italian troops invaded her country, rested today in a primitive inn at the little town of Florina, 10 miles from the border, in Greece.

The 23-year-old Queen, of American-Hungarian parentage, was tired and weak after a 14-hour, 160-mile ride over tortuous mountain roads in an ambulance. She was attended by two doctors and three nurses.

She planned to continue to Salonika today, if her physicians thought her able. Two unmarried sisters of her husband, King Zog, arrived there last night.

The queen's party left Tirana at dawn yesterday, accompanied by her American-born mother and a few Albanian guards.

Highland Plans 'Old Home Week,' Special Festival

Seven or More Communities in Fruit Belt to Join in Own Fete During Blossom Time

Highland, April 8.—Apple Blossom time will mean Old Home Week to residents of the fruit belt in this vicinity, it was indicated today when plans for an event to be sponsored by the Business Men's Organization were made public.

Tentative plans of the group, it was reported, call for either a day or week for a special festival during blossom time with an "Old Home Week" motive.

Plans Discussed
Plans for the event were discussed at the town hall earlier in the week by a committee composed of Miss Helen Wright, John J. Gaffney, A. W. Lent and Gordon E. Wilcox.

It is planned to have the southern Ulster district including Milton, Marlborough, Plattekill, Modena, Ardonia and Clintonville, represented in the festival. The date would be set during the week when the blossoms are in full bloom.

It is the expressed aim of the group not to conflict with the festival which is to be centered at Kingston May 6, and it was indicated that the event at Highland would be at least a week later.

Will Select Queen
Tentative plans also call for selection of a queen, and it is expected that the only expense to be involved is the hiring of the local theatre for selection of the queen and other events will be held. A small admission to be charged for this event is expected to cover the cost of the festival, with perhaps enough remaining to pay for the costume to be worn by the queen.

A parade with decorated floats would be part of the event. It is planned also to have one or more of the local churches make arrangements to serve a cafeteria dinner. Coronation ceremonies for the queen would take place on the school grounds.

Plans for the proposed festival were outlined by Mrs. A. W. Lent at a meeting of a local Ladies' Aid Society Wednesday and on Thursday to another organization. A meeting of the committee which suggested the event, will be held again Monday evening at which time it may be decided definitely whether or not it will be held.

Bad News Is Balanced By Word From Hospital

Monongahela, Pa., April 8 (AP)—The youthful father of Harold Holt Jr., the 2½ year-old baby who was taken to New Rochelle, N. Y., for X-ray treatment of a tumor after physicians said his case was hopeless, returned home tonight weary from a day of job-hunting.

"Bad news, honey," he said to his wife Wilma.

"But I have good news," beamed Mrs. Holt, handing him a letter from the New Rochelle Hospital.

It read: "The tumor is only the size of a nut now. Harold can leave the hospital soon. In a day or two we are going to move him to a home near the hospital and he will be brought in once a week for a treatment. He is so improved we have had him out riding in an automobile several times."

"I've just got to get a job now," the 26-year-old father declared. "I've got to get money to send Wilma east to be with the boy when he is moved."

Holt lost his job as a riverboat deckhand shortly after his son was taken east three weeks ago.

Weather Outlook
Weather outlook for the week beginning Monday: North and middle Atlantic states: Precipitation Tuesday or Wednesday and again Friday or Saturday. Cool first part of week, warmer middle and cooler at end.

Mountain Battle Duce's Troops Reported in Battle With Albania's Mountaineers

Rome, April 8 (AP)—Italian troops marched into Tirana at 9:30 a. m. (3:30 a. m., E. S. T.) today to occupy the ruler-less Albanian capital after a night of disorder in the city.

Italian dispatches from Tirana said a small group of Italian military officers and Albanian gendarmes had taken control in the excited city after King Zog had moved his government to Elbasan, 25 miles south.

Order had been restored after a night of shooting and rioting and looting some hours before the troops arrived.

It was expected in political circles here that a provisional government would be set up quickly, pending Premier Mussolini's decision on the future relations of the new regime with Rome.

Extra editions of Italian newspapers in three-inch-high letters announced the news: "Tirana occupied!"

Italian Losses
An Italian dispatch reported the victory had been gained with the following Italian losses: Twelve killed and 53 wounded in yesterday's disembarkation at Durazzo, where the thrust at the mountain kingdom's capital was launched.

Eight sailors killed and 34 wounded in fighting in Durazzo. One sailor killed and 10 wounded at Saffi Quaranta, near the Greek border.

Previous Italian news agency dispatches had indicated occupation of the capital was imminent as one of four columns of Fascist motorized troops fought against King Zog's embattled mountaineers from Durazzo, on the coast, toward Tirana, 25 miles in the interior.

Stefani, Italian official news agency, declared the royal palace and the palace of King Zog's sisters were sacked and "important loot" carried off before order was restored.

Italian dispatches from Tirana said that a regiment of grenadiers arrived there by airplane from Grottaglie, near Taranto. This was one of the first known cases of mass transportation of troops by plane from the Italian mainland.

Special Editions
Tirana's two newspapers published special editions this morning with the following headlines: "Friendly Fascist troops commanded by General Guzzoni are reestablishing a new order in Albania."

"Many Albanian dignitaries went to legation as a mark of respect to Italy and Il Duce, expressing their conviction that a new era is beginning in the history of Albania."

Official Italian dispatches reported that

The county manager said that the men who are laid off the WPA payrolls will have to be supported on relief by the city and towns, and he estimated it would cost Kingston and the county $35 a month per man laid off.

The total cost to Kingston to support the 56 men laid off was estimated by Manager Hallinan as approximately $2,000 a month while in the county the cost would be approximately $3,185 per month.

Manager Hallinan estimated that the total cost to the city and county to support the 147 men laid off would amount to approximately $5,145 a month.

Cost to Business

The layoff also meant, he said, a loss to business of approximately $3,640 in the city, and $5,915 to the towns, or a total cost to the county and city merchants of $9,550 a month, which represented the amount of money on the payrolls of the men laid off, and which they would not have to spend with the merchants by reason of the loss of their jobs.

In Good Position

United States in Better Legal Spot to Protest Than Other Nations

Washington, April 8 (AP)—The administration debated today whether to call Mussolini's attention to his apparent violation of the Kellogg anti-war pact, signed by both Italy and the nation he had invaded, Albania.

In view of action taken by this government several weeks ago, following Hitler's seizure of Czechoslovakia, it was thought likely in authoritative quarters that some effort would be made to demonstrate the administration's opposition to the invasion of Albania.

Hull in Contact

Secretary of State Hull kept in close touch with President Roosevelt, communicating to him by telephone the latest news from a half dozen European capitals.

Mr. Roosevelt is vacationing in Warm Springs, Ga.
The United States is in a better legal position to protest Italy's action than are Britain and France. Those nations, along with Italy and Japan, signed a declaration reached by a council of their ambassadors in Paris in 1921, recognizing that the "violation of Albania's frontiers would constitute a menace for the strategic security of Italy."

The United States withdrew from the council some months before.

Italy Strengthens Anglo-French Hold Over Mediterranean

Seizure of Albania Means End of Italy as Islam's Protector, French Official Says

Paris, April 8 (AP)—Italy's invasion of the Moslem kingdom of Albania was reported in Paris today to have so strengthened French and British empires in the Mediterranean that it may prove a boomerang for Premier Mussolini.

"This means the end of Italy as the self-styled protector of Islam," said a high official in the French colonial office.

In Syria where French failure to push through a 1936 Syrian independence treaty led to disorders and strikes which French troops had to quell, the reaction was immediate.

Scathing Attack

Faris El Khouri, president of the Syrian Parliament and outstanding leader of the nationalist bloc which has led the anti-French agitation, issued a scathing attack on Italy. He indicated his bloc would now cooperate with the French.

"Italy's pretensions of protecting our Moslems now reminds us of the story of the lion which defends the prey he does not intend to divide with others," El Khouri said.

Even as Italian troops fought their way into the little Mohammedi state on the Adriatic, the Italian station at Tripoli, Libya, broadcast an appeal in Arabic for Moslems in Tunisia, France's protectorate, to make a demonstration next Sunday against the French. French observers interpreted the broadcast as a call for an Arab revolt.

Numerous Demonstrations
Immediately after the broadcast there were a number of anti-Italian demonstrations by Arabs in Tunisian cities, however, and various Moslem organizations telegraphed declarations of loyalty to the French resident general's office in Tunis.

Arab sources in Paris said Italy's Albanian invasion would "cancel" much of her recent anti-French and anti-British propaganda in Moslem parts of the French and British empires.

Part of the Paris press declared, however, that to solidify this reaction, Britain and France must do more than "shrug their shoulders" at Italian aggression.

No War Set-off

As a whole the French press did not view Italy's attack on Albania as something which in itself would set off the war Europe fears.

One commentator pointed out that Italy, by an agreement of the conference of ambassadors of World War allies in 1921, became the "protector of Albania," with the right to intervene.

But almost the entire press urged the government to rush negotiations to solidify the eastern "stop Hitler" bloc.

Swafford also disclosed another prison "racket" he said would be investigated. Certain trustees, he said, who learned the parole board had acted favorably upon a petition, would go to the prisoner due to be released and promise him his freedom on a parole for a specified amount of money.

Explaining how he discovered the fraudulent "fixing" of official records, Swafford said he received a letter in March from the clerk's office "telling me that a certain prisoner was to go out on March 22."

"It seemed to me that the date set out was wrong, so I checked it against other records and I found that the prisoner was not due to go out until 1940."

"I then discovered that an ink eraser which left no trace had been used in changing dates on the records. I also learned that prisoners paid from $10 to $150 to procure alterations of their records."

Queen Geraldine Rests in Tiny Inn After Trying Ride

Albanian Ruler's Wife Has Tortuous Trip Through Mountains With Her Two-Day Old Son

QUEEN GERALDINE

Athens, April 8 (AP)—Queen Geraldine of Albania, who fled Tirana with her three-day-old son as Italian troops invaded her country, rested today in a primitive inn at the little town of Florina, 10 miles from the border, in Greece.

The 23-year-old Queen, of American-Hungarian parentage, was tired and weak after a 14-hour, 160-mile ride over tortuous mountain roads in an ambulance. She was attended by two doctors and three nurses.

She planned to continue to Salonika today, if her physicians thought her able. Two unmarried sisters of her husband, King Zog, arrived there last night.

The queen's party left Tirana at dawn yesterday, accompanied by her American-born mother and a few Albanian guards.

Mrs. Gladys Stewart Girault, the former Countess Nagy-Apponyi, accompanied the queen.

Tennessee Checks Purchased Paroles

Officials Express Surprise Over Manner in Which Files Are Changed

Nashville, Tenn., April 8 (AP)—Tennessee officials, amazed over a story of how prison inmates "bought" their way to freedom through "ink eradicators" changes in the record files, today began a case history check of 500 paroled convicts.

"We don't know how many prisoners have been given their freedom or paroles on altered prison records," Acting-Warden Glenn Swafford said, "but we have found a large number and probably will find a lot more before the check is completed." He said he had not fixed the blame on anyone as yet.

Swafford also disclosed another prison "racket" he said would be investigated. Certain trustees, he said, who learned the parole board had acted favorably upon a petition, would go to the prisoner due to be released and promise him his freedom on a parole for a specified amount of money.

Explaining how he discovered the fraudulent "fixing" of official records, Swafford said he received a letter in March from the clerk's office "telling me that a certain prisoner was to go out on March 22."

Highland Plans 'Old Home Week,' Special Festival

Seven or More Communities in Fruit Belt to Join in Own Fete During Blossom Time

Highland, April 8.—Apple Blossom time will mean Old Home Week to residents of the fruit belt in this vicinity, it was indicated today when plans for an event to be sponsored by the Business Men's Organization were made public.

Tentative plans of the group, it was reported, call for either a day or week for a special festival during blossom time with an "Old Home Week" motive.

Plans Discussed

Plans for the event were discussed at the town hall earlier in the week by a committee composed of Miss Helen Wright, John J. Gaffney, A. W. Lent and Gordon E. Wilcox.

It is planned to have the southern Ulster district including Milton, Marlborough, Plattekill, Modena, Ardona and Clintondale, represented in the festival. The date would be set during the week when the blossoms are in full bloom.

It is the expressed aim of the group not to conflict with the festival which is to be centered at Kingston May 6, and it was indicated that the event at Highland would be at least a week later.

Will Select Queen

Tentative plans also call for selection of a queen, and it is expected that the only expense to be involved is the hiring of the local theatre for selection of the queen and other events will be held. A small admission to be charged for this event is expected to cover the cost of the festival, with perhaps enough remaining to pay for the costume to be worn by the queen.

A parade with decorated floats would be part of the event. It is planned also to have one or more of the local churches make arrangements to serve a cafeteria dinner. Coronation ceremonies for the queen would take place on the school grounds.

Plans for the proposed festival were outlined by Mrs. A. W. Lent at a meeting of a local Ladies' Aid Society Wednesday and on Thursday to another organization. A meeting of the committee which suggested the event, will be held again Monday evening at which time it may be decided definitely whether or not it will be held.

Bad News Is Balanced By Word From Hospital

Monongahela, Pa., April 8 (AP)—The youthful father of Harold Holt Jr., the 2½ year-old baby who was taken to New Rochelle, N. Y., for X-ray treatment of a tumor after physicians said his case was hopeless, returned home tonight weary from a day of job-hunting.

"Bad news, honey," he said to his wife Wilma.
"But I have good news," beamed Mrs. Holt, handing him a letter from the New Rochelle Hospital.

It read:
"The tumor is only the size of a nut now. Harold can leave the hospital soon. In a day or two we are going to move him to a home near the hospital and he will be brought in once a week for a treatment. He is so improved we have had him out riding in an automobile several times."

"I've just got to get a job now," the 26-year-old father declared. "I've got to get money to send Wilma east to be with the boy when he is moved."

Holt lost his job as a riverboat deckhand shortly after his son was taken east three weeks ago.

Weather Outlook

Weather outlook for the week beginning Monday: North and middle Atlantic states: Precipitation Tuesday or Wednesday and again Friday or Saturday. Cool first part of week, warmer middle and cooler at end.

Grand Jurors' Directors

The board of directors of the Grand Jurors' Association of Ulster County will meet Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the County Court House.

Mountain Battle

Duce's Troops Reported in Battle With Albania's Mountaineers

Rome, April 8 (AP)—Italian troops marched into Tirana at 9:30 a. m. (3:30 a. m., E. S. T.) today to occupy the ruler-less Albanian capital after a night of disorder in the city.

Italian dispatches from Tirana said a small group of Italian military officers and Albanian gendarmes had taken control in the excited city after King Zog had moved his government to Elbasan, 25 miles south.

Order had been restored after a night of shooting and rioting and looting some hours before the troops arrived.

It was expected in political circles here that a provisional government would be set up quickly, pending Premier Mussolini's decision on the future relations of the new regime with Rome.

Extra editions of Italian newspapers in three-inch-high letters announced the news:
"Tirana occupied!"

An Italian dispatch reported the victory had been gained with the following Italian losses:
Twelve killed and 53 wounded in yesterday's disembarkation at Durazzo, where the thrust at the mountain kingdom's capital was launched.

Eight sailors killed and 34 wounded in fighting in Durazzo. One sailor killed and 10 wounded at Santi Quaranta, near the Greek border.

Previous Italian news agency dispatches had indicated occupation of the capital was imminent as one of four columns of Fascist motorized troops fought against King Zog's embattled mountaineers from Durazzo, on the coast, toward Tirana, 25 miles in the interior.

Stolani, Italian official news agency, declared the royal palace and the palace of King Zog's sisters were sacked and "important loot" carried off before order was restored.

Italian dispatches from Tirana said that a regiment of grenadiers arrived there by airplane from Grottole, near Taranto. This was one of the first known cases of mass transportation of troops by plane from the Italian mainland.

Special Editions

Tirana's two newspapers published special editions this morning with the following headlines:
"Friendly Fascist troops commanded by General Guzzoni are reestablishing a new order in Albania."

"Many Albanian dignitaries went to legation as a mark of respect to Italy and Il Duce, expressing their conviction that a new era is beginning in the history of Albania."

Official Italian dispatches reported that mass meetings of people had been organized in Tirana to give the Italian troops an enthusiastic reception when they entered the city.

Radio telegraph and telephone communications were declared to have been reestablished.

Dynamiting of a bridge on the Tirana-Durazzo highway had impeded the march of the motorized divisions moving to occupy the capital of Albania, Stefani said.

To End "Tyranny"

As the Fascist penetration continued, despite admitted stiff opposition.

On Stark's Tip

Missouri Governor Paved Way for Pendergast Tax Indictment

Kansas City, April 8 (AP)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark personally gave President Roosevelt the tip that led to indictment of T. J. Pendergast, Kansas City Democratic boss, on charges of evading federal income taxes on $215,000.

Pendergast and R. E. O'Malley, former state insurance superintendent dismissed by Stark, were indicted yesterday by a federal grand jury.

The Star, in a special dispatch from Washington, said:
"Even before his election (in 1936) Stark learned of the payment of large sums of money in connection with a $9,500,000 fire insurance rate compromise in 1935 and 'finally took his case direct to President Roosevelt.'"

Red Hill Ranger Station Equipped For Broadcasting

David R. Hillson of Phoenicia, veteran forest ranger, who last month completed 20 years of service with the Conservation Department, was in the city Friday on business and while here chatted with friends at the court house on various matters of interest connected with conservation work.

Among other things Mr. Hillson referred to the new broadcasting station the department has erected at Red Hill, in the town of Denning. The station is equipped both to send and receive messages and is now in operation. A gasoline engine furnishes power to run the equipment. Working in cooperation with the radio equipped cars of the conservation department and an airplane which is available for emergencies the new installation is expected to be of great value in directing the work of forest fire fighting and in giving warning when fires are located.

Mr. Hillson said that the new station has a considerable radius and has no difficulty in communicating with points as far away as Middletown, in which latter section another station has been located at a point on the Shawangunk Mountains.

Witthoft Reports Loss of Wallet

Harwich Street Resident Says Men Stop Him; $24 Is Missed

Herman Witthoft, 75, of 55 Harwich street, reported to the police department shortly after 3 o'clock Friday afternoon that he had been halted by two men while walking along Albany avenue, who had stopped him to ask if he knew a man named Smith.

After assuring the men that he did not know the man they sought Mr. Witthoft went home, and found that his wallet containing $24 in money was missing from his hip pocket.

Car at Curb

He told the police that he is walking near the Clearwater residence on Albany avenue there was an old car parked at the curb in which two men and a woman were seated. As he approached the men got out of the car and walked up to him and engaged him in conversation.

Mr. Witthoft told the police that the two men looked like gypsies. He was unable to furnish a description of the two men and in company with two police officers he visited several phrenology salons that have been opened in the city, but was unable to find the men he sought in them.

Reports Condition

While the officers were escorting Mr. Witthoft about the city a search for the men, Officer Peter Keresman reported to police headquarters that an insubordinate condition existed at the former vacant store at 7 West Strand where gypsies had opened a phrenology salon.

The police department got in touch with Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy who made an inspection and ordered the gypsies to vacate. There were four men, two women and three babies living in the store.

They agreed to vacate but at 6 o'clock were still in the store.

Orders Store Vacated

Sanitary Inspector Charles Shultis of the health department was called and made an investigation and as a result of the investigation he also ordered the store vacated. This time the order was enforced and the gypsies left for parts unknown in their automobiles.

It is said the group of gypsies came to Kingston from Beacon several days ago and were using the vacant store on West Strand for business purposes and also living apartments.

Italian Soldiers Occupy Albania

position, the controlled Italian press told an unexcited people that the invasion of hitherto allied Albania was to liberate the country from Zog's "tyranny."

The Fascist legions were estimated at 25,000 to 50,000 by foreign observers.

The Albanian regular army was said to number 15,000, with enough arms for only half its members.

Other Italian detachments landed at San Giovanni De Medua, in the extreme north; at Valona, under the protection of Italian fortifications on Sasso Island, and at Santi Quaranta, in the extreme south.

These also were advancing, it was announced, with the southern column occupying Delvino, 10 miles inland.

Italian reports attributed the resistance chiefly to hordes of criminals who, the dispatches said, King Zog had let out of jail.

Additional Italian troops were reported pouring into Albania, but official statements were silent on this point.

Populace "Joyous"

Italian communiques said a large part of the population received the Italians with joy "at being delivered from Zog's rule."

It appeared evident that Italy, which for years supported Zog in order to control Albania—just 40 miles across the Adriatic Sea from Italy—was finally finished with the monarch and would listen to no proposal coming from him.

Zog's last proposition was dismissed in official dispatches as a "subterfuge to play for time." It was made to General Guzzoni, head of the invading army and transmitted to Premier Mussolini. It was believed to involve acceptance of an Italian protectorate if Albania were accorded a modicum of independence and permitted to retain a monarchy.

Diplomats thought Mussolini would not deign to answer the proposal.

U. S. Points Out Violation of Pact

fore the declaration was made, however, and therefore is not in the same position as Britain and France of agreeing to Italy's special interests in Albania.

May Delay Decisions

Decisions on questions of recognition of the new status in Albania, and the continuance of the American legation in Tirana or its transformation into a consulate, may be put over until next week, when the state department will have had a chance to gather together all the facts in the case.

Officials were inclined to regard the Italo-Albanian trouble as less likely to lead to a major war than either the Munich or the later Czecho-Slovakian crisis.

Secretary Hull conferred yesterday with Faik Konitza, who considered his service here as Albanian minister at an end. Konitza said he would burn his official records rather than turn them over to Italian officials, unless King Zog ordered otherwise. He issued a statement adding:

"I and my other Albanian intellectuals have dreamt of a close cultural, economic and political cooperation with Italy on an honorable basis. The elegant answer is a punch on our head."

Queen Geraldine Rests in Greece

yi, is the queen's mother. Her father was the late banker and marshal of the Hungarian court, Count Julius Nagy-Aponyi, who died in 1924. The queen's grandmother was Virginia Harding of Virginia.

The party arrived at Florina about 7:30 p. m. yesterday and Queen Geraldine was taken from the ambulance on a stretcher into the town's only inn. Her mother carried little Crown Prince Skander.

Members of the group said the queen, who married Zog last April 27, pleaded with her husband to let her remain in Tirana but that he insisted she leave the country.

She passed a fairly comfortable night. The baby was said to be healthy. Greek and Albanian soldiers stood guard outside the Inn. No one was permitted to enter.

Still Plenty of Snow and Ice in Plattsburg Country

Deputy Sheriff Arthur H. Brown, who was in Plattsburg yesterday on business connected with the sheriff's office, says that they still have plenty of snow in the north woods.

At least two feet of snow, he was told, remain on the mountains, while the streets of Plattsburgh look about as Kingston streets did a month ago. Huge snow drifts still border the road leading to Plattsburg and men were noticed fishing through the ice which covers part of Lake Champlain.

Speaker at Schenectady

The Rev. Clarence E. Brown, pastor of the Wurts Street Baptist Church, who is a past commander of Roundout Commandery, will be the principal speaker at the sunrise service sponsored by St. George's Commandery 37, Knights Templar, in the Plaza Theatre, Schenectady. This service is held annually on Easter, and four Schenectady ministers and members of the Masonic chorus will take part.

BOSS PENDERGAST SIGNS BOND ON FEDERAL CHARGE

Following his indictment by a federal grand jury in Kansas City on income tax evasion charges, "Boss Tom" Pendergast, (center) head of the city's powerful Democratic organization, is shown signing as he posts bond. At left is Louis McGee, who made bond for the political leader, and at the right is U. S. Commissioner Charles H. Thompson. Also indicted was R. E. O'Malley, Missouri state insurance superintendent at the time a $9,000,000 insurance rate case was compromised.

Chinese Dancer Has Received High Praise in Recitals

The current American tour of Si-Lan Chen, Chinese dancer, who is to appear at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday, April 17, for the benefit of Chinese medical and civilian relief, has netted her much favorable criticism at the hands of metropolitan theatre reviewers. She already has been acclaimed in European capitals.

Among the press notices given Miss Chen when she made her New York debut early this year, are the following:

"Her movement, is crisp and smart and sure with something of the characteristic clarity and precision of her race," said John Martin in the New York Times.

Jerome D. Bohn, in the New York Herald-Tribune, commented: "All her gestures and movements stem from emotional impulses and are the creation of highly individualized imagination. Her technique is excellent."

Miss Chen's art, said the New York World-Telegram, "... showed all this exquisite dancer's technical agility and power to realize a mood."

Meanwhile, Irving Kolodin said, in the New York Sun: "Though Miss Chen draws her materials from Chinese sources, her treatment of it plainly derives from her observations of the modern dance in the western world, for she was educated in England.... Nevertheless, that treatment is tempered by her own wit and fantasy, yielding results of definite individuality."

Miss Chen's dance appearance here is sponsored by the Kingston

China Aid Council, headed by Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck. All proceeds of her performance will be sent to the Chinese Red Cross for relief work among her countrymen.

Tickets may be obtained at the Y. W. C. A., the Y. M. C. A., and at the office of Dr. Elizabeth Parsons, 88 Maiden Lane.

Of a total of $7,631,809,000 cash income of farmers for 1938 in the United States, $482,221,000 was in the form of government payments.

Smart Riding Habit that's Easy to Acquire

The model illustrated is the Buick Special model 41 four-door touring sedan $899 delivered at Flint, Mich.

YOU'VE probably noticed that most of the folks who drive Buicks come back again and again to this great automobile when it's time to buy a new car.

There are two reasons for that. One's a money reason, the other's a pleasure reason.

Sticking to Buick means you're sure every year that you're getting top value, and no hunting all over town to find it.

Repeating on Buick means that season after season you ride behind the ablest right of its size in the world—the Buick valve-in-head straight-eight, that Dynaflex power-house that's livelier and smoother and thrifter than engines of other type.

Year after year you'll travel in comfort—the smooth, easy, level-going comfort of the torque-tube drive and Buicil Springing, sailing along on a staunch and sturdy chassis that holds you true and steady to your course.

You always have room in a Buick—and this year you've a new and broader outlook through 412 added square inches of safety plate glass. And you're leading the style parade—no doubt about that—with appearance that's like a leaf from tomorrow's book.

All of which adds up, you'll find, to satisfaction so complete that once you've got the Buick driving habit, no other car quite seems to measure up.

Now this big strong resilient straight-eight costs less than you think. It's priced lower than a year ago—even below some sixes.

So why not simplify your car-buying for all time—get that smart Buick riding habit now.

In no other way that we know can you make sure of having so much fun. Or of getting so much value for every penny you spend!

$894 AND UP delivered at Flint, Mich. *Prices subject to change without notice. Transportation, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra.

ONLY BUICK HAS IT! This sure-fire direction signal that flashes warnings of turns at a flip of a switch! Shows day or night. Standard on all models!

YOUTH PROBLEMS

With the recent arrest of eight young boys in the city charged with participation in some 25 minor burglaries over a six-months' period, the problem of youth again arises.

"Youth imitates. Youth emulates. Youth is active. Youth is restive. Youth is venturesome. Youth is the time of lawlessness." This is a recent statement of James A. Johnston, warden of the famous Alcatraz Prison in San Francisco.

All true, including the last item, in which the warden is especially interested, and about which our whole American society should be seriously concerned.

Probably we have never given half enough attention to the problems of youth. It is especially important to attend to them now, when our economic troubles have made it harder than ever before in American history for boys and girls to solve their problems and get a fair start in life before their youth and buoyancy are lost. The public generally has not yet waked up to this problem. Yet it is a problem which may determine our national future more than any other.

Our schools are good, on the whole, but not very well adapted yet to handling these problems. Municipalities have pioneered in some useful directions through playground sports and amusements, but they are mere beginnings.

The sandlot baseball diamond helps greatly. When the young boys are yelling with excitement over that big hit and the runs that are coming over the plate they are participating in good, clean sport and they are not getting into any serious trouble. Soon there will be intense emotion in the backyards and vacant lots of the city, when the young boys swing into action with bat, glove and ball and with lusty lungs. The sandlot game produces healthier boys with better balance between work and play and right and wrong.

RULES FOR DEMOCRACY

Judge Florence F. Allen, first woman federal circuit judge, is keenly interested in democracy and peace. She has been active in the movement to outlaw war, but she realizes that both peace and democracy depend upon more than laws and pacts and the right to vote. In a recent address on "The Constitution of the United States as an Instrument of Freedom" she said:

"If I had the right, I would require that every child in the public schools of the United States learn—

"The first part of the Declaration of Independence, which tells why we severed our ties with England;

"The Preamble to the Constitution;

"The First Amendment to the Constitution which is the Bill of Rights;

"The Gettysburg Address;

"The Multi-lateral Pact for the Renunciation of War—the Kellogg Peace Pact signed in Paris in 1928."

An American who understood those five great documents would understand what democracy is and how it may be preserved, and also the foundations upon which a true and lasting peace must be built.

It would be a fine patriotic service for someone to print them in a convenient and attractive form for general distribution.

THE MILITARY WAY

"The watchword is this," declared Premier Mussolini in a recent address to the Italian people: "More cannon, more warships, more airplanes, at whatever cost, with whatever means, even if it should mean wiping out all that is called civil life."

It sounds as if the Duce really believes the good way of life is the military life.

Many nations have seemed to think so at various periods of history. But the old biblical rule always seems to prevail in the end: "They that take up the sword shall perish with the sword." Some degree of military defense or national policing is nearly always necessary; but in the long run the nations with a "will to peace" are more likely to endure, because they save their strength instead of wasting it.

POETRY AND BUSINESS

The foreign representative of several manufacturing concerns recently won a Persian government contract for American machinery by the simple and pleasing act of reciting some verses of an ancient Persian poem which happened to fit neatly into the matters in hand. The gentleman modestly explains the affair as follows.

"Poetry forms a vital part of the life of the Persians. From the lowest beggar to government officials, stanzas of the old classics are spoken, and if a connection can be made between the meaning and the trend of the conversation everyone is pleased. That is what happened when I got the contract from the ministry."

Born in Vienna, a war prisoner in Siberia, adviser to the Turkish government under Kemal Ataturk, and finally business representative of several American firms, this man's career sounds neither scholarly nor poetical. Yet he knew a Persian poem at the right moment.

The average American business man is supposed to know very little about poetry, even in English, but in these days of keen trade competition he may have to memorize a verse now and then.

PLAYING WITH WAR

"Europe is playing a vast checkers game and each piece is loaded with dynamite," says an editorial writer.

It is only partly true. Only Europe's rulers are playing that game. The plain people have nothing to say about its various critical moves.

Yet if any of the dynamite explodes into war it will be the plain people who must fight, losing limbs and lives and, after it is over, suffering a new and more terrible round of economic depression and social collapse.

We Americans certainly enjoy politics. We start electing our presidents two years ahead of time, and then spend another year rehashing the campaign.

"From harmony, from heavenly harmony, this universal frame began," sang the poet. But there doesn't seem to be much harmony in the present universal frame-up.

Autocrats can't thrive without national grievances, and so when none exists they manufacture 'em.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.
TREATMENT OF SINUS INFECTION

When a head cold persists for a long time and the watery discharge turns to mucous, it is usually regarded as sinus infection. The first thought in treatment is the application of drugs that will 'shrink' the lining of the nose and allow more air to enter and ventilate the sinuses. Sometimes surgery is required before a good passage through nose and throat to lungs is obtained. That these persistent head colds—sinusitis—may be due to some general defect or infection of the body is now the belief of our nose and throat specialists.

Drs. George M. Coates and William Gordon, in the Philadelphia Number of Medical Clinics of North America, state:

In view of the fact that many cases of sinus disease are caused and kept in an active condition by some defect in one or more systems of the body, it is important that a thorough general physical examination be made including blood studies, tests for syphilis, tuberculosis, the percentage of sugar in the blood, contains, anemia, the working of the heart and kidneys, the blood pressure, the gland system, the tests of the working ability of the liver, kidneys, and heart.

"Every method should be used to raise the resisting powers of the sinus itself and of the whole body." These methods include diet, rest, clothing, exercise, and other health habits. The diet should include fresh vegetables and greens, cod liver oil or its equivalent, milk, cream, butter, fruits.

Exercise, attention to posture (standing and sitting), breathing exercises, as well as massage, hot and cold baths, and sun lamp treatments all help to raise the general resistance of the body. The increased circulation of richer and purer blood will strengthen the resistance to infection of the lining of the walls of the sinuses.

Sufficient sleep, regular periods of rest and relaxation, will greatly aid the various working processes of the body and restore some of the lost reserve power.

"Proper clothing and avoidance of chills and drafts prevent further lowering of the resistance of the body. Mental hygiene, by cultivating poise and calmness, promotes vigor and prevents mental and physical depression."

It will come as a surprise to many who think the treatment of sinus infection consists of the use of substances to shrink the lining tissues or of surgical operation, to know that the building up of the general resistance of the body is such an important factor in successful treatment.

SHOKAN

Shokan, April 7.—Mrs. Gabriel Richard of New York has been spending a few days at her summer home on the state road. Mr. Richard was the guest Saturday night of Mrs. Aner Longyear and Miss Edna Longyear.

Mrs. Joseph Yerry of Bushkill was a caller in the village center Tuesday.

Word has been received here of the birth of a son last week to Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Hyatt of New Jersey. The new arrival, second child of the couple, has been named Richard King. The baby is a nephew of Mrs. Fred Adsit of Shokan and a grandson of Mrs. Elizabeth Barclay of Ashokan.

Several members of the Charles Rodriguez family came up from New York to be at their heights farmhouse over the week-end.

The community was shocked by news of the sudden death Wednesday night of Mrs. Frank Myers of the state road. Mrs. Myers had been playing cards at the home of a neighbor only a short time before being stricken with a fatal heart attack. Mr. and Mrs. Myers made their home in Kingston before going to Shokan a few years ago.

E. Clayton Burgher, west side insurance man, was a recent business caller in Shokan.

The young men were members of Company A, 120th Regiment. Local maple syrup producers have taken up their sap buckets. The run this season was only fair, though much better than last year.

Covenant Day was observed at the Olive and Hurley meeting-house Sunday by a number of O. S. Baptists, several of whom came from Kingston.

Mrs. Viola Bell, now in her 80th year, is enjoying good health and is fairly active. Mrs. Bell resides at the old Markle homestead with her brother, Homer Markle, Sr., and family.

Dr. G. S. Warren, who was taken suddenly ill last week, is reported as improved.

76 years is still a keen hand with the dominoes. Mr. Winchell recalls that, among his contemporaries in the game 50 years ago, Zadoc P. Boice and Alvah F. Davis were "tops" in this section.

"Zadoc" was known as an exceptionally fast and successful player. Others who rolled up consistently big scores at "muggins" included Mathias Burgher, Louis Shaw, John D. Ennist, Rensselaer Longyear, Northwest Everett and Henry Bogart.

Of the above old time domino players at socials and surprise parties, Messrs. Shaw and Winchell are survivors.

The April meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Shokan Reformed Church, held Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. Herbert Dilbeck's, was attended by 15 members. It was decided at the business session to continue the society's annual custom of distributing flowering plants on Easter Sunday. The next regular meeting of the Aid will be held Wednesday, May 3, in the church basement.

Damage Done Italian Prestige Throughout the World Will Hardly Prove Worth Seizing Albania

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)
Washington, April 8.—"Will there be war in Europe?" is rapidly becoming an academic question, for there is war in Europe and has been ever since totalitarian states started to disregard the formalities of a declaration of war and began seizing territory as they pleased.

"Undeclared war" is the modern technique, and that's one reason why such words as "neutrality" may also become obsolete, for, in one way or another and especially through the report of food as well as raw materials, the United States is performing today exactly the same service of supply as she did in 1914.

But, while international law and custom have been flagrantly ignored, the making of a record is of the utmost importance for the democracies, where public opinion is the controlling force. Thus, the Italian seizure of Albanian ports is such a clear act of aggression that it is puzzling why Premier Mussolini should have been inveigled into taking the step.

For in the long run, Italy's record before the court of world opinion must stand or fall on whether she used her military and naval forces for defense or aggression. And there can be little doubt, from published reports, that the Albanian government refused to accede to threats and actually resisted coercion applied against it when the loss of sovereignty and independence was at stake.

The Albanians doubtless will be overpowered, but the damage done Italian prestige throughout the world will hardly prove worth the trouble. Up to now, the Italian Duce has been condemned far less in America than his ally, Herr Hitler. There have been some who believed that ultimately the British would win Mussolini away from Germany, but the Albanian episode rather dissipates any hope for the success of such allied strategy.

When the attack on Ethiopia came, there were many people in Britain and France who felt that the Italians had a right to exploit Africa, since the other European nations had done likewise. But now, when an independent kingdom in Europe itself is made the victim of a sudden invasion, American public opinion, always important to Signor Mussolini, will look askance at the extremes to which totalitarianism has gone.

The situation becomes further complicated because of the attitude which the Vatican may be compelled to take. Up to now, the sympathies of the church at Rome have been on the side of Nationalist Spain, for example, largely because the issue was represented to be one of pro or anti-Communism. But it can hardly be contended that this was involved in the seizure of Albania. Will the Catholic Church look on silently as the head of the Italian state orders innocent men, women and children bombed in order to carry out designs of territorial aggression? The probabilities are that the Pope will have something to say about it and that Catholics throughout the world will wait with deep interest to see whether the Mussolini government is going to imitate the Hitler government in more ways than one.

The only justification which Premier Mussolini may claim is that, ever since the French and British started their policy of so-called "encirclement," he found it necessary to take military and naval steps to protect Italy. In other words, the Mussolini viewpoint may be that, during a war—and certainly "undeclared war" differs very little from actual war so far as respect for the territory of small independent states is concerned—any measure of defense is logical and supportable. The totalitarian doctrine is to strike first and debate afterwards. Swift-moving action is possible in a one-man government, and that is why the democracies are going to find it difficult to complete their "encirclement" plans.

What has happened in Europe in the last few weeks is exactly what President Wilson predicted when he made his argument for collective security by a League of Nations. His contention was that a system of military alliances sets up a balance of power which can at any moment be thrown out of balance and then war results. Small nations are then at the mercy of the strong, and in the present instance there is very little, if any, mercy shown.

The alternatives grow clearer every day. Can a system of collective security be developed in Europe in which all nations guarantee the independence of all others, or must there be periodic wars in which one group is able to hold the other in defeat only until the sinews of another war can be found?

Many who despair of seeing a system of collective security worked out by Europe alone are insisting that America, holding the real balance of power, can assure world peace. If by this is meant a threat of the use of military force, the American people will hardly be deceived, but if by this is meant a program of justice for all concerned, developed by the exercise of the moral force and leadership of America, then there may yet be time to halt Europe on the brink of disaster.

Moral force means a mobilization of the opinion of mankind. It means expression rather than silence and it means also the rallying of free peoples everywhere—a process which sooner or later penetrates behind the lines of peoples under the yoke of dictators. Since in the face of wanton aggression has never been the policy of democracies—and the invasion of Albania must inevitably release voices of condemnation which will reach the Italian people and make them begin to realize the ultimate danger of the course that has been adopted for them.

An Easter party was held at the school on Wednesday morning. There was a program given by the pupils and Miss Snyder remembered each pupil with a nice Easter gift of candy. The school closed on Wednesday for the Easter vacation and will open on April 17.

Local Industry Numbered Among Assets in World of Music

Piano Hardware Is Manufactured At Ramsey Plant

Various Parts on Instrument Are Made for Several Prominent Concerns in Nation

Hardware parts produced in the pounding din of factory discord are functioning today in many nations as silent agents of aesthetic qualities which bring poetry and harmony to sound and make it music.

Humble enough in themselves are such parts, but important to one major musical instrument—the piano, and myriads of them have been made in the nearly 30-year-old plant of the Ramsey Piano Hardware Co. of Kingston.

Moods and cadences set down in the works of great composers gain their transitional values by dint of these gadgets and they have worked overtime to produce the feverish creations of Tin Pan Alley.

They are a component need in this union of the mechanics and art and were as essential back in the days of the harpsichord and other outmoded piano forms, as they are today on the instruments of modern design. Without them, Bach, Mozart and other great masters could have failed, and perhaps today Paderewski would be playing a violin.

To All Manufacturers
It can be seen then that Kingston harbors an industry of fascinating distinction and it is the only one of its type today in the nation. All types of hardware parts used on the piano are made in the local plant and these are sold to all major manufacturers of the instrument.

The Ramsey Co. was established originally in 1898 in New York city by Charles Ramsey. He came to Kingston in 1910 and set up his business in the structure where it is today at 15-19 Gage street.

Mr. Ramsey died in 1932 and the business is now carried on by his widow, Mrs. Charles Ramsey, with the aid of Harry Kaprelian, who supervises all operations in the plant. Mrs. Ramsey is president and treasurer of the company; Mr. Kaprelian, secretary, and C. J. Heitzmann, assistant treasurer.

Employed by Haas
Mr. Ramsey was employed in his younger years by the Henry Haas Co. in New Jersey where he worked to become a specialist in his line. He remained in the Metropolitan area up until the time he decided to come to Kingston and open his own factory.

In 1928, the Kingston concern bought out the New Jersey company and the latter now operates as the only one of its type in the country manufacturing piano hardware for the larger companies.

The local company turns out virtually every type of hardware piece needed in the construction of a piano. These include hinges, pedals, trap work, springs, back bolts and leg sockets, cover catches, desk or rack slides, all kinds of brackets, prop sticks and piano bars for the upright models.

These parts are sold to such companies as Winter & Company of New York; Wurlitzer, of DeKalb, Ill.; Hardman Peck & Company, Acolian American Corp., Baldwin Co., Kimball, Lester Piano Co. and many others. They sell to about all the companies but Steinway, which has a department to make its own hardware.

The Steinway Co. recently asked an agent of the local plant to call on them, and it may be that some time in the future orders will be placed also by this concern.

New compact piano models of the console style have made the instrument more popular in the American home and their increase in sale has meant something of a boom in the local industry. Some of these models are known also as spinet, musette, minuet and console. They fit well in small apartments and sell at an inviting price.

The console type of piano is from 35 to 55 inches in length and from 22 to 24 inches in width. Manufacturers report that 70 per cent of the pianos made today are of this console style and last year 140,000 of them were reported sold.

Grand piano sales were reported at 10,000 for last year and while this larger model is holding its own for concert purposes, it is generally out of place in the smaller homes.

Grand pianos sell at an average price of $500 while the average price of the other models is $300.

Annual Business $100,000
The local factory does an average annual business of $100,000 and employs 18 men steadily six days in the week. Some of the men have been employed at the plant since it began and others worked with Mr. Ramsey when he was in New York in 1898.

Tons of metal are used in the plant every year and heavy shipments of the finished products are sent out at regular intervals to fulfill orders which are made by contract. The concern buys about 100,000 pounds of brass a year. Most of this comes from the Leo M. Scully Brass Foundry at Coxsack.

Shipments in steel to the plant average 180,000 pounds a year or six carloads from the Bethlehem Steel Co. and about the same from the American Steel & Wire Co. Cast iron shipments average about 50 tons a year from the Riverside foundry in Pennsylvania.

Other supplies bought by the plant include Egyptian lacquer, of which 500 gallons are used annually. The plant uses also about 10,000 wooden boxes a year and these are bought from the New England Box Co. Only two items used at the factory are imported and these are Italian pumice stone and Turkish emery.

These Men Work So That the Nation's Pianos Will Play

Metal in its cruder forms is transformed into important agents of harmony, rhythm and all that goes to make music in one of the world's popular instruments. Rods and bars of various description, pedals, hinges and more than 150 other parts essential to the proper functioning of a piano are made at the Gage street plant shown above at left. At top right is a department on the upper floor of the factory where the metal pieces are buffed. At left center is one of the workmen at one of the wheels used in the polishing process and at right center, is the room in which the electroplating is done. At bottom left one of the machine operators is shown passing a hinge strip through a machine which makes them secure and to the right workmen are shown at the heavier machines on the lower floor.

More than 150 different hardware items are made at the plant and these are produced on machine units for which dies have been made in 2,439 different patterns. All die patterns are designed and owned by the company.

Weight Five Tons
Most of the machines weigh from five tons or more and cost an average price of $10,000. The small unit made recently for the production of hinges was constructed in the plant at a cost of $11,500.

One man frequently operates two different machines and the various products made are sent from one department to another until they are ready for packing and shipment. Large supplies of many of the parts, which are in more common demand, are kept on hand to fulfill large orders at the immediate convenience of the customer.

The machines are largely of the press variety to provide pressure for boring holes, shaping rods and pressing the metal into various forms.

Some of the hinges are made in long strips. The brass for these comes in large rolls. It is straightened out and cut in the sizes needed to fill an order and then cut on one of the machines at uniform intervals, the open spaces simulating the shape of the hinge.

Extended edges of these hinge strips are rolled into precise shape by another machine and long brass wires are inserted to make the hinge complete. Each operation of these machines must be perfect for the variation by even a fraction of an inch would mean an imperfect product.

Own Specifications
Each customer has his own specifications for the various parts made and the sizes of the various items are changed frequently in fulfilling the orders. Holes on the hinges, for instance, are made at different intervals on several types and this is true for about every part made in the factory.

Brass is cut for the various shapes and sizes needed for the different items on a revolving cutter and other machines shape the hardware pieces by pressure. Hinges range generally in four types, one of which is known as the fancy variety.

Various peculiar shaped levers which go into what is known as the "trap work" of a piano are shaped expertly by the machines. Many of these rods and pieces of metal, vary in size and shape and some have singular curves and twists, which must fit exactly on the part for which they are meant.

Most of the heavier pressure machines which shape, cut and drill the metal parts are on the main lower floor and the lighter finishing machines are on the second floor.

In the department upstairs metal work which has already been through other processes are buffed on revolving wheels covered with emery strips. These wheels are made of wood and after 200 or 300 metal parts are applied the emery is removed for replacement and the wheels washed.

Parts which need fancy finishing, such as the pedals and bars, are given a plating of brass or nickel. All metal parts are then given a lacquer finish to preserve their polished surface.

Huge tanks to the rear of the lower floor hold hundreds of gallons of the chemical solutions needed for the process of electroplating. Long strips of brass and nickel are inserted in these tanks and when the current is turned on the molecular particles travel to put a nickel or brass surface on the iron pedal or other such part.

Creates Own Power

The plant creates its own power for the electroplating process and the materials for the two solutions used are mixed in this department. Careful watch of the solutions is kept to prevent a damaging separation of the chemical ingredients.

Finished parts are filed for shipment in compartments in the basement and in another storage room above are kept the supplies of metal. A supply of 200,000 pounds of steel is generally kept on hand. This comes in rolled form, flat strips and in half-rolled pieces with flat bottoms.

Sheet brass is usually stored in lots of 25,000 to 30,000 pounds and about 25,000 pounds of iron and 20,000 pounds of solid brass are kept for the making of pedals.

Designs for the various parts, although different in sizes and shapes, have varied but little in general style until recently. The plant now makes a few parts in modernistic design to conform to the latest models pianos which follow the pattern of the current trends in furniture.

A modernistic pedal for the newer type pianos was designed recently by Mr. Kaprelian. Commercial bronze is used on a few of the designs, but largely the pedals are finished in brass and nickel.

The outlook for this year is particularly bright at this time, Mr. Kaprelian said, and the production of this small but important industry, should guarantee steady employment to the workmen for a long time in the future.

Red Hill Ranger Station Equipped For Broadcasting

David R. Hillson of Phoenix, veteran forest ranger, who last month completed 20 years of service with the Conservation Department, was in the city Friday on business and while here chatted with friends at the court house on various matters of interest connected with conservation work.

Among other things Mr. Hillson referred to the new broadcasting station the department has erected at Red Hill, in the town of Denning. The station is equipped both to send and receive messages and is now in operation. A gasoline engine furnishes power to run the equipment. Working in cooperation with the radio equipped cars of the conservation department and an airplane which is available for emergencies the new installation is expected to be of great value in directing the work of forest fire fighting and in giving warning when fires are located.

Witthoft Reports Loss of Wallet

Harwich Street Resident Says Men Stop Him; $24 Is Missed

Herman Witthoft, 75, of 55 Harwich street, reported to the police department shortly after 3 o'clock Friday afternoon that he had been halted by two men while walking along Albany avenue, who had stopped him to ask if he knew a man named Smith.

After assuring the men that he did not know the man they sought Mr. Witthoft went home, and found that his wallet containing $24 in money was missing from his hip pocket.

Car at Curb

He told the police that he is walking near the Clearwater residence on Albany avenue there was an old car parked at the curb in which two men and a woman were seated. As he approached the men got out of the car and walked up to him and engaged him in conversation.

Mr. Witthoft told the police that the two men looked like gypsies. He was unable to furnish a description of the two men and in company with two police officers he visited several phrenology salons that have been opened in the city, but was unable to find the men he sought in them.

Reports Condition

While the officers were escorting Mr. Witthoft about the city in a search for the men, Officer Peter Kersman reported to police headquarters that an insubordinate condition existed at the former vacant store at 7 West Strand where gypsies had opened a phrenology salon.

The police department got in touch with Five Chief Joseph L. Murphy who made an inspection and ordered the gypsies to vacate. There were four men, two women and three babies living in the store.

Orders Store Vacated

Sanitary Inspector Charles Shultis of the health department was called and made an investigation and as a result of the investigation he also ordered the store vacated. This time the order was enforced and the gypsies left for parts unknown in their automobiles.

It is said the group of gypsies came to Kingston from Beacon several days ago and were using the vacant store on West Strand for business purposes and also living apartments.

Italian Soldiers Occupy Albania

position, the controlled Italian press told an unexcited people that the invasion of hitherto allied Albania was to liberate the country from Zog's "tyranny."

The Fascist legions were estimated at 25,000 to 30,000 by foreign observers.

The Albanian regular army was said to number 15,000, with enough arms for only half its members.

Other Italian detachments landed at San Giovanni De Medua, in the extreme north; at Valona, under the protection of Italian fortifications on Sasseno Island, and at Santi Quaranta, in the extreme south.

These also were advancing, it was announced, with the southern column occupying Delvino, 10 miles inland.

Italian reports attributed the resistance chiefly to hordes of criminals who, the dispatches said, King Zog had let out of jail.

Additional Italian troops were reported pouring into Albania, but official statements were silent on this point.

Populace "Joyous"

Italian communiques said a large part of the population received the Italians with joy "at being delivered from Zog's rule."

It appeared evident that Italy, which for years supported Zog in order to control Albania—just 40 miles from Italy—was finally finished with the monarch and would listen to no proposal coming from him.

Zog's last proposition was dismissed in official dispatches as a "subterfuge to play for time."

It was made to General Guzzoni, head of the invading army and transmitted to Premier Mussolini. It was believed to involve acceptance of an Italian protectorate if Albania were accorded a modicum of independence and permitted to retain a monarchy.

Diplomats thought Mussolini would not deign to answer the proposal.

fore the declaration was made, however, and therefore is not in the same position as Britain and France of agreeing to Italy's special interests in Albania.

May Delay Decisions

Decisions on questions of recognition of the new status in Albania, and the continuance of the American legation in Tirana or its transformation into a consulate, may be put over until next week, when the state department will have had a chance to gather together all the facts in the case.

Officials were inclined to regard the Italo-Albanian trouble as less likely to lead to a major war than either the Munich or the later Czecho-Slovakian crisis.

Secretary Hull conferred yesterday with Falk Konitz, who considered his service here as Albanian minister at an end. Konitz said he would burn his official records rather than turn them over to Italian officials, unless King Zog ordered otherwise. He issued a statement adding:

"I and my other Albanian intellectuals have dreamt of a close cultural, economic and political cooperation with Italy on an honorable basis. The elegant answer is a punch on our head."

yi, is the queen's mother. Her father was the late banker and marshal of the Hungarian court, Count Julius Nagy-Aponyi, who died in 1924. The queen's grandmother was Virginia Harding of Virginia.

The party arrived at Florina about 7:30 p. m. yesterday and Queen Geraldine was taken from the ambulance on a stretcher into the town's only inn. Her mother carried little Crown Prince Skander.

Members of the group said the queen, who married Zog last April 27, pleaded with her husband to let her remain in Tirana but that he insisted she leave the country.

She passed a fairly comfortable night. The baby was said to be healthy. Greek and Albanian soldiers stood guard outside the inn. No one was permitted to enter.

Still Plenty of Snow and Ice in Plattsburg Country

Deputy Sheriff Arthur H. Brown, who was in Plattsburg yesterday on business connected with the sheriff's office, says that they still have plenty of snow in the north woods.

At least two feet of snow, he was told, remain on the mountains, while the streets of Plattsburg look about as Kingston streets did a month ago. Huge snow drifts still border the road leading to Plattsburg and men were noticed fishing through the ice which covers part of Lake Champlain.

Speaker at Schenectady

The Rev. Clarence E. Brown, pastor of the Wurts Street Baptist Church, who is a past commander of Rondout Commandery, will be the principal speaker at the sunrise service sponsored by St. George's Commandery, 37, Knights Templar, in the Plaza Theatre, Schenectady. This service is held annually on Easter, and four Schenectady ministers and members of the Masonic chorus will take part.

Chinese Dancer Has Received High Praise in Recitals

The current American tour of Si-Lan Chen, Chinese dancer, who is to appear at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday, April 17, for the benefit of Chinese medical and civilian relief, has netted her much favorable criticism at the hands of metropolitan theatre reviewers. She already has been acclaimed in European capitals.

Among the press notices given Miss Chen when she made her New York debut early this year, are the following:

"Her movement, is crisp and smart and sure with something of the characteristic clarity and precision of her race," said John Martin in the New York Times.

Jerome D. Bohm, in the New York Herald-Tribune, commented: "All her gestures and movements stem from emotional impulses and are the creation of highly individualized imagination. Her technique is excellent."

Miss Chen's art, said the New York World-Telegram, "... showed all this exquisite dancer's technical agility and power to realize a mood."

Meanwhile, Irving Kolodin said, in the New York Sun: "Though Miss Chen draws her materials from Chinese sources, her treatment of it plainly derives from her observations of the modern dance in the western world, for she was educated in England.... Nevertheless, that treatment is tempered by her own wit and fantasy, yielding results of definite individuality."

Miss Chen's dance appearance here is sponsored by the Kingston

China Aid Council, headed by Judge G. D. B. Harbrough. All proceeds of her performance will be sent to the Chinese Red Cross for relief work among her countrymen.

Tickets may be obtained at the Y. W. C. A., the Y. M. C. A., and at the office of Dr. Elizabeth Parsons, 88 Maiden Lane.

Of a total of $7,631,808,000 cash income of farmers for 1938 in the United States, $482,221,000 was in the form of government payments.

OLD HOME WEEK MURDER

by Phoebe Atwood Taylor

The Characters

Asey Mayo, Cape Cod sleuth.
Kay Thayer, girl reporter.

Yesterday: Lane has found a shotgun shell, but Asey isn't bawled over by the news.

Chapter 30

A Little Experiment

"In spite of the rain," Asey said, "you can tell that these flowers aren't been watered, or dug around, can't you? The ground's hard as a rock, even a little under the surface. That was a heavy downpour, but it didn't soak in much. It's been pretty dry lately. And here, on this slant, the water runs down off into the drive. See where it went?"

"What if the rain didn't soak in? It could have washed out the shell, couldn't it? Asey, don't you see where it was? It washed out, right there," Lane pointed to the hole again.

"It did," Asey said, "because it was stuck there this mornin', or last night, so that a good rain would wash it out. Lane, I'm not trying to muss this up, but can't you see? The ground around is hard. Where you found the shell, it's soft. It was dug up, an' the shell stuck in, just so it'd wash."

Lane said a number of bitter things.

"Yesterday mornin'," Asey said, "you raked this whole area, didn't you? Monday night you an' I took flashlights, didn't we, over this whole area? We raked it. We walked up an' down around this garden plot. We both said it was hard an' dry. Lane, how could we be missed seein' it? If the ground around were softer, I'd say it could have washed out. But it's hard. And this rain wasn't heavy enough to wash anything out of a hole like that. And if the shell had been buried here before, we'd have found it, see?"

"Listen," Lane said, "can't you figure that this means the case?"

"I can figure enough to figure that someone wanted me to think so."

"The Warren girl," Lane said firmly, "stood near here, probably in the lee of the apple tree, and shot Mary Randall, and then tossed the shell—"

"That's another point," Asey said. "Shell. Why not shells, Lane?"

"Tossed the shells aside—I bet you can find the other if I dig up this garden—"

"Why," Asey inquired, "bury 'em separate? Oh, Lane!"

"If I dig up this garden, I'll find another. Anyway, then Warren took the gun and beat it to the pond, and tossed the gun in the water. Then she came back and let you in the house, and let you find the woman."

"If it were me," Kay said, "I wouldn't have tossed a shell, or the shells, aside. Not if I intended to dunk the gun in the pond right afterwards. I'd have flipped the lot into the water, all at once. Why complicate things by leaving the shells here?"

"All women," Lane said, "don't think alike. Where are you going, Asey?"

"Kay an' I," Asey said, "are going to make a little geographical survey. While we're gone, you dig up the zinnias an' prod around the petunias, an' find the other shell for us, an' I'll bet any sum you want, you'll find it in a nice little hole dug just for it. So long."

"How would you," Kay asked as Asey took her elbow and proceeded to her toward the woods, "what is your idea, and what is your theory?"

"A Nice Safe Place"

"SOMEONE," Asey told her, "after giving the problem due thought, come to the conclusion it'd be easier for him if instead of makin' this a hundred percent mystery, we was allowed to find a suspect. First point is shells. So Lane finds a shell, in a place I personally grubbed every inch of. Shortly he will find another shell."

Kay walked along a few steps in silence.

"Then you think that the gun I found is planted, too?"

"Wa-el," Asey drawled, "now s'pose you wanted to get rid of a gun, yourself. You got two things handy. Thoph's Pond, an' the Atlantic. There's an undertow along shore, an' you got a fifty-fifty chance of havin' your gun go for- ever, or havin' some bather find it at low tide. To do a good job with the ocean you ought to dump your gun in the channel, at that needs a boat. For him, the pond's nearer. The pond's also more obvious like, ain't it?"

Kay nodded.

"But now," Asey paused for a moment, "s'pose you'd decided that Thoph's Pond was the ideal spot to get rid of your shotgun in. So what?"

"Why, you'd dump it there!"

"Sure," Asey said with irony. "You'd march right out on that old wharf pilin', an' you'd dump it right off the end, wouldn't you? Right where all the tourists dive, an' the summer cottagers get clean, an' where all the dogs, includin' Amos the wonder dog, get their weekly wash. A nice, safe place. Sure."

"I never thought of that," Kay said honestly. "I suppose you would at least hurl it off a bit."

"At least, you'd go round to the other side where no one bathes, an' it makes off into the real mud, an' you'd pitch the gun as far as you could send it onto the mud bottom. Now, climb up on this stump. Can you see the pond?"

"Of course I can!"

"An' you can see the house?"

"In the hollow? Yes. For that matter, I can see the ocean, and the lighthouse, and two coalers off shore, and the Town Hall tower, and the belfry of the First and only Congregational church. What is this, a course in landmarks?"

"Exactly," Asey said, "and you are Jane Warren. I'll give you an hour to work out the shortest an' most direct route, an' the most passable, from Randall's in the hollow to the ice house. There are two paths. You take 'em an' get familiar with 'em, an' then we'll try a little experiment. Oh, it's rainin' some more. You mind? If you don't want to do this—"

"I only get about half the idea," Kay said, "but I'm willing to do anything that might help."

"This will. Now, this is your affair. Personally, I think the lower path is safer. If you want to make detours, or anything, you can."

"I won't need an hour for that."

"Oh, yes, you will. You pick your path," Asey said, "an' learn it. Think how this'll help you. Local color. Bayberries, scrub pines, checkerberries," he picked a leaf and chewed it, "nice Cape air, an' a first-hand acquaintance with Cape rain."

"Local Color"

At the end of an hour Kay returned to where Asey sat on the stump.

Her legs were scratched with brambles and one shoe string had broken, her face was smudged and her red hair was soaking under her beret.

"Add local color," she observed, "mosquitoes, red ants, two snakes, three skunks—happily not very observant—and a splendid assortment of insect life and pricklers. How did the early settlers take it?"

"I've always wondered," Asey told her, "when you've rested, we'll go back an' try this out."

Lane greeted them with little enthusiasm.

"It's the shotgun the Warren girl bought with that check of Prettyman's," he said. "I called Boston and checked on it."

"That bears out your ideas," Asey said.

"I suppose so. But the other shell—yes, I found it. It was dug in, like you said. What've you been doing?"

"I just been sittin'," Asey said. "Kay, she's been investigatin' our local flora an' fauna."

"Well," Asey said, "this is a continuation of our timin' project—how you pick up these words! My cousin Syl has takin' to callin' his garbage hole a refuse disposal project. Well, Lane, Kay's goin' to stand by the apple tree, an' say 'Boom,' an' then she's goin' to pretend to dig two shells in—just for fun—an' then she's goin' to run to the ice house at the pond, dump a shell in, an' rush back to the house. In eight minutes I'm goin' to bang the knocker. Let's see if she can be back there to answer. Now look, we'll time this shell diggin', too. Let's see what happens."

Lane hesitated. "But Jane knew the ground," he said at last.

"Kay probably knows it just as well, an' she's got the advantage of not havin' any shotgun to carry, an' daylight, an' the disadvantage of a light rain. That ought to even it all up. Set, Kay? Got your watch ready, Lane? You start her off."

"Give her the signal, an' I'll dash to the garden, where she dug two imaginary holes, inserted them over with a brushing motion of her hand. Then she turned and set off toward the pond."

Asey and Lane walked over to the house.

"Guess you're right," the latter said. "You seldom aren't right, but darn it, no one ever solves a case of this kind, and I got carried away. Why the plant?"

"Find out someone who doesn't like Jane," Asey said. "An' I must tell you about Brinley."

Lane interrupted him in the middle of his story.

"Eight minutes are up. Go on."

Asey had time to finish his story before Kay panted back.

"Give me a cigarette!" Kay said. "I haven't done anything so strenuous since I played hockey in my youth—isn't it amazing, the way you get to like the use of your legs as you grow older? Anyway, Asey, I went the shortest way, and I was like to break my neck I went so fast, and here I am. Even if you take time off for the digging process, I'm still way behind, aren't I?"

Continued Monday.

Little Willie was late for Sunday school. The parson observed him coming in and inquired the cause. "I was going fishing," the lad said, "but my father wouldn't let me."

"That's the right kind of a father to have," said the parson. "Did he explain the reason why you couldn't go fishing on Sunday?"

"Yes," said the lad, "He said that there wasn't bait enough for two."

Boogy—You must be very fond of the movies, Woogy, to go three nights a week.

Woogy—To tell the truth, Boogy, I'm not keen about a lot of the shows they have nowadays, but I have to go to understand what my youngsters are talking about.

HOLLYWOOD NOTE: The Glamor girls and boys let us in on all their little secrets of "how to be one" through the movie magazines, but it takes the dictionary to explain the result, thus: Glamour, n: A delusion. 2: Any artificial interest by which an object is made to appear delusively magnified or glorified.

An aged servitor in a Southern household, who must have been in his second childhood, fell into the habit of mumbling to himself. One day his employer politely inquired: "Sam, why are you always talking to yourself?" "Why is Ah allers talkin' to mahself?" "Yes, why are you always talking to yourself?" "Well, sah, boss, in de fust place, Ah lacks 't talk to a smart man. An' in de second place, Ah jes, natcherly loves to hear a smart man talk."

"All right back there?" called the conductor from the front of the car. "Hold on!" came a feminine voice. "Wait till I get my clothes on!" The entire carful turned and craned their necks expectantly. A girl got on with a basket of laundry.

The doctor was sitting reading the newspaper when his wife entered the room. "George," she said, "what do you think. Mother wants to be cremated."

"Right," said the doctor, briskly throwing his paper on one side and springing to his feet. "Where is she?" Tell her to put her things on."

Fred Planthaber Trims Julius Tellier for the City Billiard Championship

The winner and still champion, Fred Planthaber! That was the announcement Referee Larry Hyatt would have made if he had made one) after the final game in the city pocket billiard championship tournament last night at Nick's. Planthaber defeated Julius Tellier 100 to 58 in a well played match that saw Tellier start out with a rush to build up a 20 ball lead and then Planthaber come back to overcome him with a run of 27, score of 17 and another of 29, to score 33 points while Tellier was gathering only two points to add to his total.

Planthaber played his usual careful and colorful game, which, although it is not so nice for the spectators to watch has proven that it's the type of play that pays off in the long grind in an eleven game tournament schedule. Tellier had a couple rather "tough rolls" the first coming after a very clever double kiss shot, when he missed a long table try and gave Planthaber the opening he needed for his 27 run and the opportunity to catch up.

After the match Tellier immediately challenged Fred to a 500 point match to be played in four blocks. The time of the match to be announced later by Nick Kaslich, the man who sponsored the city tournament again this year.

There is a tie in the standings for third place money between Clifton Quick and Bill Hopper. This match will be played off Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Kaslich parlors.

The final standings in the tournament are:
W. L.
Fred Planthaber ..... 10 0
Julius Tellier ..... 10 1
Clifton Quick ..... 8 3
Billy Hopper ..... 8 3
Davy Brooks ..... 5 6
Eddie Benoit ..... 5 6
Walt Jaghers ..... 4 7
Mike Carpino ..... 4 7
Myrie Russell ..... 4 7
John Naccarato ..... 4 7
Rich East ..... 2 9
Francis Schilling ..... 1 10
The tournament high team prize went to Mike Carpino.

Strafaci to Meet Dunkelberger for Amateur Golf Title

Pinehurst, N. C., April 8 (AP)—Either Bobby Dunkelberger, a strapping from High Point, N. C., or Frank Strafaci, of Brooklyn, N. Y., will be the north and south amateur golf champion for a second time.

Strafaci is the defending champion, and Dunkelberger won the tournament in 1937. Both moved into the 36-hole title round of the 1939 tournament with victories yesterday.

Strafaci beat Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Conn., 2 up. Dunkelberger defeated Charles Whitehead of South Orange, N. J., one up.

Dunkelberger, winner of the French amateur crown last summer, led Whitehead three up at the ninth and held the advantage through the 15th. Whitehead won the 16th with an eagle three to the 17th with a par three. They halved the 18th.

The Carolinian, who had shot par or better throughout the tournament, has a 71, one under par for the round.

Strafaci, former public links champion, fought an up-hill battle. He trailed Chapman by four holes at the sixth, was two down at the ninth and squared the match at the 15th. He went into a lead with a birdie four at the 16th. They halved the 17th. Then Strafaci had a fine second shot to the home green and holed a three to win. His medal score for the round was 75.

Knights and Elks To Be Honored at Banquet April 15

On Saturday evening, April 15, at 9 o'clock, the International Tournament Association will officially close the 1938-1939 season with a banquet at Chic's Rendezvous in Glascow.

The committee on arrangements has completed plans for what promises to be a most enjoyable evening.

Trophies will be awarded to the Knights of Columbus and the Elks Club for the excellent record made by each team during the present season. Reservations will close April 13, and tickets may be secured from any of the following committee members: Frank Weiss, Ray Whitbeck, Vincent Markle, Oscar Newkirk, Ed Flisler, Bill Rothery, Ed Wortman, Jack Greene, William Brophy and Andrew Sweeney.

Jack Feye Trophy To Be Awarded to 'Chappie' Cooper

At a special meeting of the Church Basketball League, held last night at the Y. M. C. A., "Chappie" Cooper was voted the most valuable player to his team during the past season. Chappie played with the First Dutch Five. This vote automatically wins the Jack Feye trophy which will be awarded at the annual banquet which will be held in the near future.

Bears May Outrow Washington April 15

They Say '39 Husky Crew Simply 'Hasn't Got It'

Washington Coach Al Ulbrichson has the look 'of a man awaiting execution.'

Seattle, (AP)—Washington's plethora of rowing victories over California may come to an end about 5 p. m. April 15, on the Oakland estuary. They're saying around the Washington crew house the boys "just haven't got it." "They don't even react like orthodox human beings," graying Coach Al Ulbrichson says. "They're up one day and down the next. Their physical condition is good, but their attitude between the ears is lousy. They regard workouts as just a job of work. They're punching the clock instead of pounding their oars."

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

Orlando, Fla.—Finally getting alarmed at the failure of First Baseman Jimmy Waddell to shape up as a satisfactory replacement for Zeke Bonura, sold to the New York Giants, the Washington Senators are reported casting around for someone else. Bert Haas, a property of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is getting most of the attention.

Little Rock, Ark.—The New York Yankee tourists are kidding Jake Powell and Joe Gallagher about writing ahead to opposing managers asking for them to use left-handed pitchers against the world champions. New York has faced eight southpaws in five games and Marse Joe McCarthy, following his announced plan, has started Powell and Gallagher in the outfield against all southpaws. Meanwhile George Selkirk, who gets his chance against right-handers, moaned, "I never knew there were so many southpaws in the world."

Baton Rouge, La.—The New York Giants had an especial reason for wanting to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates in an exhibition game today. It is the only warmup the Terrible Terrymen will have against a National League team. But Manager Bill Terry himself wasn't present. He directed a second team against Memphis in his home town.

Augusta, Ga.—Rookie Pete Reiser has tamed down some since he startled the Brooklyn Dodgers and a lot of other people by batting a perfect 1,000 his first eight times at bat. But he's still doing an even 500 for a total of 30 bases in 30 times at bat, which is just about par for any course. He got a double and single in three chances yesterday.

Exhibition Baseball

(By The Associated Press)

Exhibition games today are scheduled as follows:

At Baton Rouge, La.: New York (N) vs. Pittsburgh (N).

At San Antonio, Tex.: St. Louis (A) vs. Chicago (N).

At Greensboro, N. C.: Cincinnati (N) vs. Boston (A).

At Orlando, Fla.: Washington (A) vs. Boston (N).

At Chattanooga, Tenn.: Philadelphia (N) vs. Chattanooga (SA).

At Salisbury, N. C.: St. Louis (N) vs. Catawba College.

At Augusta, Ga.: Brooklyn (N) vs. Detroit (A).

At Birmingham, Ala.: Philadelphia (A) vs. Birmingham (A).

At Atlanta, Ga.: Philadelphia (A) vs. Atlanta (SA).

At New Orleans: Cleveland (A) vs. Chicago (A).

At Little Rock, Ark.: New York (A) vs. Little Rock (SA).

Results Yesterday
At Chattanooga, Tenn.: Philadelphia (N) 4, Chattanooga (SA) 7 (ings).
At Orlando, Fla.: Boston (N) 8, Washington (A) 4 (13 inings).
At Abilene, Tex.: Pittsburgh (N) 16, Chicago (A) 14.

Record Entry List For State Bowling Honors at Elmira

Elmira, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—Bowlers from eight cities, vanguard of a record entry list, tuned up today for the inaugural of the 17th New York state championship tournament.

And tuning up with them was Elmira Mayor J. Maxwell Beers, who will roll the first ball when five-man squads from Albany, Auburn, Endicott, Watford, Syracuse, Plattsburgh, Elmira and Mahopac take the alleys at 7:30 p. m. tonight.

A record entry list of 1,869 singles bowlers and 939 doubles teams was booked for the tournament, which will continue through May 15. The five-man entry, 611 teams, was second highest in the history of the tournament. A total of 882 quintets competed last year in Albany.

Four of the five championship winners of 1938 were entered in defense of their titles: Marksons Furniture of Syracuse in the five-man competition, A. Reynolds of Oswego in the singles, and G. Young of Hempstead in the all-events.

The 1938 doubles champions, L. Santori and W. Forslund of New York, who set a tournament record of 1,376, were not entered. Other tournament records at which bowlers will begin to snipe tonight are: Five-man, 3,138 by Thums White Elephants of New York in 1933; singles, 764 by R. Wallace of Utica in 1923, and all-events, 2,066 by Young in 1938.

YOUTH PROBLEMS

With the recent arrest of eight young boys in the city charged with participation in some 25 minor burglaries over a six-months' period, the problem of youth again arises. "Youth imitates. Youth emulates. Youth is active. Youth is restive. Youth is venturesome. Youth is the time of lawlessness." This is a recent statement of James A. Johnston, warden of the famous Alcatraz Prison in San Francisco.

All true, including the last item, in which the warden is especially interested, and about which our whole American society should be seriously concerned.

Probably we have never given half enough attention to the problems of youth. It is especially important to attend to them now, when our economic troubles have made it harder than ever before in American history for boys and girls to solve their problems and get a fair start in life before their youth and buoyancy are lost. The public generally has not yet waked up to this problem. Yet it is a problem which may determine our national future more than any other.

Our schools are good, on the whole, but not very well adapted yet to handling these problems. Municipalities have pioneered in some useful directions through playground sports and amusements, but they are mere beginnings.

The sandlot baseball diamond helps greatly. When the young boys are yelling with excitement over that big hit and the runs that are coming over the plate they are participating in good, clean sport and they are not getting into any serious trouble. Soon there will be intense emotion in the backyards and vacant lots of the city, when the young boys swing into action with bat, glove and ball and with lusty lungs. The sandlot game produces healthier boys with better balance between work and play and right and wrong.

RULES FOR DEMOCRACY

Judge Florence F. Allen, first woman federal circuit judge, is keenly interested in democracy and peace. She has been active in the movement to outlaw war, but she realizes that both peace and democracy depend upon more than laws and pacts and the right to vote. In a recent address on "The Constitution of the United States as an Instrument of Freedom" she said:

"If I had the right, I would require that every child in the public schools of the United States learn—

"The first part of the Declaration of Independence, which tells why we severed our ties with England;

"The Preamble to the Constitution;

"The First Amendment to the Constitution which is the Bill of Rights;

"The Gettysburg Address;

"The Multi-lateral Pact for the Renunciation of War—the Kellogg Peace Pact signed in Paris in 1928."

An American who understood those five great documents would understand what democracy is and how it may be preserved, and also the foundations upon which a true and lasting peace must be built.

It would be a fine patriotic service for someone to print them in a convenient and attractive form for general distribution.

THE MILITARY WAY

"The watchword is this," declared Premier Mussolini in a recent address to the Italian people. "More cannon, more warships, more airplanes, at whatever cost, with whatever means, even if it should mean wiping out all that is called civil life."

It sounds as if the Duce really believes the good way of life is the military life.

Many nations have seemed to think so at various periods of history. But the old biblical rule always seems to prevail in the end: "They that take up the sword shall perish with the sword." Some degree of military defense or national policing is nearly always necessary; but in the long run the nations with a "will to peace" are more likely to endure, because they save their strength instead of wasting it.

POETRY AND BUSINESS

The foreign representative of several manufacturing concerns recently won a Persian government contract for American machinery by the simple and pleasing act of reciting some verses of an ancient Persian poem which happened to fit neatly into the matters in hand. The gentleman modestly explains the affair as follows.

"Poetry forms a vital part of the life of the Persians. From the lowest beggar to government officials, stanzas of the old classics are spoken, and if a connection can be made between the meaning and the trend of the conversation everyone is pleased. That is what happened when I got the contract from the ministry."

Born in Vienna, a war prisoner in Siberia, adviser to the Turkish government under Kemal Ataturk, and finally business representative of several American firms, this man's career sounds neither scholarly nor poetical. Yet he knew a Persian poem at the right moment.

The average American business man is supposed to know very little about poetry, even in English, but in these days of keen trade competition he may have to memorize a verse now and then.

PLAYING WITH WAR

"Europe is playing a vast checkers game and each piece is loaded with dynamite," says an editorial writer.

It is only partly true. Only Europe's rulers are playing that game. The plain people have nothing to say about its various critical moves.

Yet if any of the dynamite explodes into war it will be the plain people who must fight, losing limbs and lives and, after it is over, suffering a new and more terrible round of economic depression and social collapse.

We Americans certainly enjoy politics. We start electing our presidents two years ahead of time, and then spend another year rehashing the campaign.

"From harmony, from heavenly harmony, this universal frame began," sang the poet. But there doesn't seem to be much harmony in the present universal frame-up.

Autocrats can't thrive without national grievances, and so when none exists they manufacture 'em.

TREATMENT OF SINUS INFECTION

When a head cold persists for a long time and the watery discharge turns to mucus, it is usually regarded as sinus infection. The first thought in treatment is the application of drugs that will 'shrink' the lining of the nose and allow more air to enter and ventilate the sinuses. Sometimes surgery is required before a good passage through nose and throat to lungs is obtained. That these persistent head colds—sinusitis—may be due to some general defect or infection of the body is now the belief of our nose and throat specialists.

Dr. George M. Coates and William Gordon, in the Philadelphia Number of Medical Clinics of North America, state:

In view of the fact that many cases of sinus disease are caused and kept in an active condition by some defect in one or more systems of the body, it is important that a thorough general physical examination be made including blood studies, tests for syphilis, tuberculosis, the percentage of sugar in the blood, the blood pressure, the working of the heart and kidneys, the blood pressure, the gland system, the tests of the working ability of the liver, kidneys, and heart.

"Every method should be used to raise the resisting powers of the sinus itself and of the whole body." These methods include diet, rest, clothing, exercise, and other health habits. The diet should include fresh vegetables and greens, cod liver oil or its equivalent, milk, cream, butter, fruits.

Exercise, attention to posture (standing and sitting tall), breathing exercises, as well as massage, hot and cold baths, and sun lamp treatments all help to raise the general resistance of the body. The increased circulation of richer and purer blood will strengthen the resistance to infection of the lining of the walls of the sinuses.

Sufficient sleep, regular periods of rest and relaxation, will greatly aid the various working processes of the body and restore some of the lost reserve power.

"Proper clothing and avoidance of chills and drafts prevent further lowering of the resistance of the body. Mental hygiene, by cultivating poise and calmness, promotes vigor and prevents mental and physical depression."

It will come as a surprise to many who think the treatment of sinus infection consists of the use of substances to shrink the lining tissues or of surgical operation, to know that the building up of the general resistance of the body is such an important factor in successful treatment.

Village Notes

Highland, April 6.—The Easter themes to be used by the Rev. St. A. MacCormac in the pulpit of the Methodist Church Sunday morning and evening are "The Paganity of Life" and "Easter Meditation." Musical numbers will be given by the choir at both services.

Special Lenten services have been held in St. Augustine's Church in observance of the church Easter season. On Thursday at 8 o'clock in the morning there was the procession of the Blessed Sacrament in which the priest, altar boys and children took part. Sunday the children's Mass will be at 8 o'clock and another Mass will be at 10 o'clock. Church decorations have been very elaborate, with Mrs. Richard Dowd being in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hildebrand and Peggy Morse left Friday to drive through to Detroit, Mich., to spend 10 days with a sister of Mrs. Hildebrand.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Willkrow have been confined to their home by an attack of the grip and their daughter, Mrs. S. D. Farnham, has been with them.

Mrs. Joseph Preston, with her daughter, Mrs. William Dean, and daughter, Dorothy Arden Dean, of Montvale, N. J., left Monday for Washington and Williamsburg and Danville, Va. At the latter place they will visit Mrs. Preston's daughter, Mrs. Stewart Wheatley.

Miss Emily Lent returned Tuesday from several days spent in New Haven and Hartford, Conn.

Mrs. George Hildebrand was a guest of Mrs. DeWitt Warren for a meeting of the Garden Club in Newburgh Tuesday.

Mrs. John F. Wadlin is ill at her home.

Miss Finetta Norton, national field director of the Girl Scout organization, is stopping at the Old Fort in New Paltz and for the month of April will spend some time with the troops in Wallkill, Milton, Marlborough, Gardiner, New Paltz and Highland. During the last week of the month she will conduct leaders' courses and in the meantime is ready for hikes and visits with each troop. On April 18 there is to be a public meeting, place to be announced later, and on April 26 she will be with the Highland troop.

Trooper James Benson of Sidney is spending this week with relatives at the river.

Damage Done Italian Prestige Throughout the World Will Hardly Prove Worth Seizing Albania

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)
Washington, April 8.—"Will there be war in Europe?" is rapidly becoming an academic question, for there is war in Europe and has been ever since totalitarian states started to disregard the formalities of a declaration of war and began seizing territory as they pleased.

"Undeclared war" is the modern technique, and that's one reason why such words as "neutrality" may also become obsolete, for, in one way or another and especially through the report of food as well as raw materials, the United States is performing today exactly the same service of supply as she did in 1914.

But, while international law and custom have been flagrantly ignored, the making of a record is of the utmost importance for the democracies, where public opinion is the controlling force. Thus, the Italian seizure of Albanian ports is such a clear-cut act of aggression that it is puzzling why Premier Mussolini should have been involved in taking the step.

For, in the long run, Italy's record before the court of world opinion must stand or fall on whether she used her military and naval forces for defense or aggression. And there can be little doubt, from published reports, that the Albanian government refused to accede to threats and actually resisted coercion applied against it when the loss of sovereignty and independence was at stake.

The Albanians doubtless will be overpowered, but the damage done Italian prestige throughout the world will hardly prove worth the trouble. Up to now, the Italian Duce has been condemned far less in America than his ally, Herr Hitler. There have been some who believed that ultimately the British would win Mussolini away from Germany, but the Albanian episode rather dissipates any hope for the success of such allied strategy.

When the attack on Ethiopia came, there were many people in Britain and France who felt that the Italians had a right to exploit Africa, since the other European nations had done likewise, but now, when an independent kingdom in Europe itself is made the victim of a sudden invasion, American public opinion, always important to Signor Mussolini, will look askance at the extremes to which totalitarianism has gone.

The situation becomes further complicated because of the attitude which the Vatican may be compelled to take. Up to now, the sympathies of the church at Rome have been on the side of Nationalist Spain, for example, largely because the issue was represented to be one of pro or anti-Communism. But it can hardly be contended that this was involved in the seizure of Albania.

Catholic Church look on silently as the head of the Italian state orders innocent men, women and children bombed in order to carry out designs of territorial aggression? The probability is that the Pope will have something to say about it and that Catholics throughout the world will wait with deep interest to see whether the Mussolini government is going to imitate the Hitler government in more ways than one.

The only justification which Premier Mussolini may claim is that, ever since the French and British started their policy of so-called "encirclement," he found it necessary to take military and naval steps to protect Italy. In other words, the Mussolini viewpoint may be that, during a war—and certainly "undeclared war" differs very little from actual war so far as respect for the territory of small independent states is concerned—any measure of defense is logical and supportable.

The Italian doctrine is to strike first and debate afterwards. Swift-moving action is possible in a one-man government, and that is why the democracies are going to find it difficult to complete their "encirclement" plans.

What has happened in Europe in the last few weeks is exactly what President Wilson predicted when he made his argument for collective security by a League of Nations. His contention was that a system of military alliances sets up a balance of power which can at any moment be thrown out of balance and then war results. Small nations are then at the mercy of the strong, and in the present instance there is very little, if any, mercy shown.

The alternatives grow clearer every day. Can a system of collective security be developed in Europe in which all nations guarantee the independence of all others, or must there be periodic wars in which one group is able to hold the other in defeat only until the sword of another war can be found?

Many who despair of seeing a system of collective security worked out by Europe alone are insisting that America, holding the real balance of power, can assure world peace. If by this is meant a threat of the use of military force, the American people will hardly be found sympathetic, but if by this is meant a program of justice for all concerned, developed by the exercise of the moral force and leadership of America, then there may yet be time to halt Europe on the brink of disaster.

Moral force means a mobilization of the opinion of mankind. It means expression rather than silence and it means also the rallying of free peoples everywhere—a process which sooner or later penetrates behind the lines of dictators. Silence in the face of wanton aggression has never been the policy of democracies—and the invasion of Albania must inevitably raise the voice of condemnation which will reach the Italian people and make them begin to realize the ultimate danger of the course that has been adopted for them.

Easter Parade Will Blend A Dozen New Fashion Trends

Gentle Feminine Mode To Set The Pace

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Fashion Editor

When American women throng "Fifth Avenues" from New York to San Diego in the Easter morning parade, the clothes they wear will reflect a dozen different fashion trends.

A pretty feminine mode, built on a profile with gentle womanly curves will lead the colorful pageant. But within and after that leading contingent will come designs of great variety and contrast.

Ingenuous little girl frocks will pass mature bustle dresses. Short full skirts will walk beside some slim straight ones and 1860 bonnets will appear with modern "glass straw" toques of semi-transparent plastic.

Trim fitted dark redingotes will contrast with slim straight box coats. Dresses will vary from white collared little girl frocks to polka dotted surah andingham checked silk designs. Suits will include dress and jacket combinations as well as that standby, the tailleur (made of sheer wool this year). Printed frocks will be worn both with dark long coats and short, colored box ones.

But nearly all will reflect one universal trend—a vogue for color. Dark marine green, dark bright blue, beige, caramel, rust and gray costumes will appear as well as the classic navy blue and black. More color will be seen in accents.

There will be some colored shoes, for instance—navy blue, wine, tan and rust colored ones. Black patent leather shoes will also be there in numbers. Most of the shoes will follow the designs of sabots, open-toed or open-backed sandals and pumps.

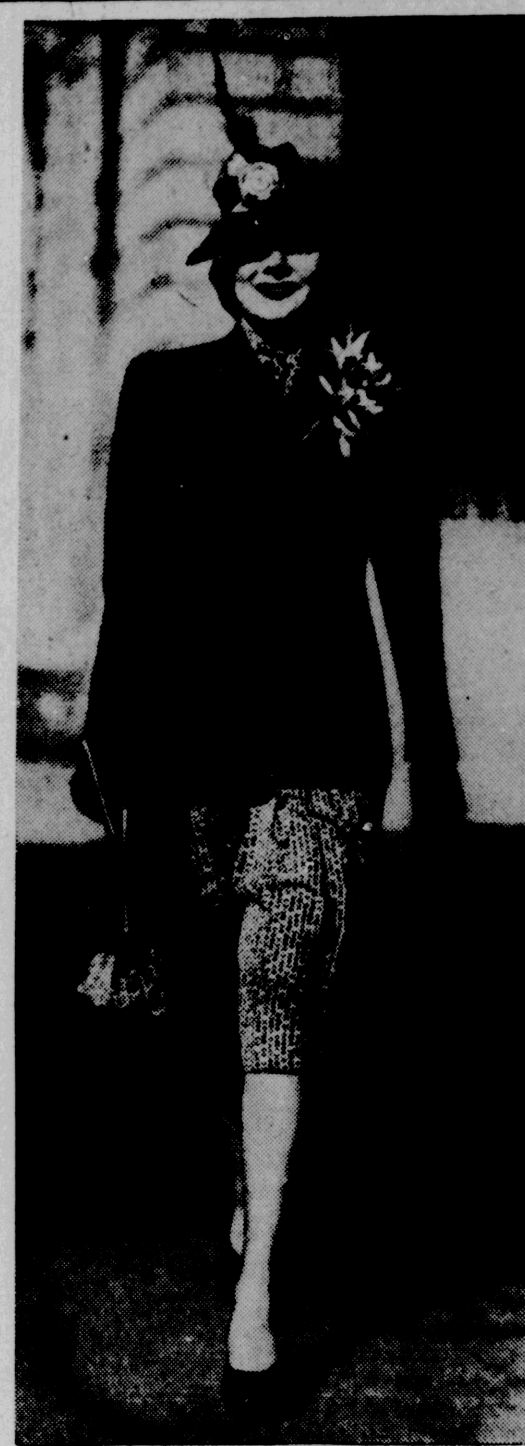

Gloves of white or colored doekskin, of plaid or checked taffeta to match a hat or petticoat will appear on smart hands.

Some of the bags which are going to church with Easter costumes continue the vogue for colored accents. Soft green, amber, blue and caramel (as well as the classic black, brown and navy) color full-finished alligator, suede and calf leathers which make a number of them. Big pouches (commodious and often rather soft in design) and square, handled bags are favorites.

Costume jewels may add color, too. Enamel "ribbons," colored

Dressed for the Easter parade, the chic New Yorker on the left wears a green, white, red and black printed frock and black wool twill redingote. Her alligator bag and crown of her sailor are white. More white accents appear in the flower-covered hat, frilly blouse and gloves worn with the sheer navy blue wool suit on the right. Orchids add a dash of color.

Over her printed frock of tan, green and white crepe this young Manhattanite wears a short, tan wool coat, with yellow and brown cymbidium orchids on the lapel.

Chartreuse flowered pillbox, gloves and bag add color accents to this Easter coat of black lightweight wool worn with a printed frock. A baum marten scarf tops the coat.

bead ropes and bubble pearls make necklaces which will smarten a number of costumes. Fanciful flower pots set with multi-colored stones and antique silver motifs will accent lapels.

Again the color note will appear in Easter bonnets, bright with gay flowers, ribbons and veils and in swishing petticoats of plain or striped taffeta.

By contrast hundreds of smart dark costumes will be accented with stark white accents—crisp pique sailors and collars, frivolous white organdy blouses and guimpes and doekskin gloves.

To avoid a too-colorful effect in their clothes, smart women are choosing costumes of a dark basic color and accenting them with one—or at most—two lighter shades.

Here are some of the costumes chick New Yorkers have assembled for the Fifth Avenue pageant:

Navy blue redingote shoes and bag, blue and white printed frock, blue straw cloche with white flowers massed on the crown, white gloves.

Marine green coat and frock, cafe-au-lait scarf, gloves and sailor hat banded in green and cafe-au-lait plaid taffeta ribbon, jeweled lapel accent.

Black bolero suit, soft yellow blouse and yellow flowered toque, chamois-colored doekskin gloves, black patent leather bag and shoes.

Rally The Kids And Let Them Hunt Eggs

Easter Parties For Children Are Fun

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

An Easter party for children is almost an essential of your spring entertainment program.

You'll probably have youngsters of about one age at your party. And if yours is a party for little tots you really should make a hunt for Easter eggs part of the program. You'll find it will be as well liked as the refreshments or the favors—and that means real enjoyment.

All Shapes, Colors and Sizes
Before the party hide as many kinds, shapes and colors of eggs as you can think of all over the place—upstairs, downstairs, even out in the garage. You can buy candy eggs, large and small, and you can get wooden eggs, too, brightly colored, if you look around in the stores.

Besides those, of course, you'll need plenty of home-dyed, honest-to-goodness eggs, too. Paint funny faces and scroll designs on them. The party will go over better, too if you let your own children do their share of decorating and hiding the eggs.

Then, when your guests are assembled, give each one a tarlatan bag and a score card and let them set forth. Rate the scoring by color of the eggs or some other simple system—count 15 for a gold egg, 12 for a silver one, 10 for a red one and so on.

When it's time for refreshments let the guests sit right on the floor, if they're in the 6-year-old class or thereabouts. For older children, it's probably better to arrange them at tables, decorated with your Easter rabbit, nests, flowers and all the rest of the holiday trappings.

to make the most of them—and you're all set to conquer.

Every girl can be glamorous. Let our 32-page booklet tell you how to build a positive winning traits, captivate with your charm. Gives revealing personality chart.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of DEVELOPING YOUR PERSONALITY to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to include plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

A bunny's nest, tapioca cream with trimmings, is a fine Easter party dessert.

Ducks and Chickens

Now for the actual refreshments: Creamed chicken served in chicken or duck bread cases with a tiny fluffy chick on top will delight all ages of youngsters.

Or cream cheese, egg and lettuce or peanut butter sandwiches cut in to rabbit, duck or chick shapes will go well with hot cocoa, marshmallow topped.

For dessert, orange sherbet and fancy barnyard and animal cookies will make a hit.

To the bread cases for creamed foods, cut ducks (or chickens) from 2-inch-thick slices of bread. Remove the centers to form little containers. Toast or serve plain, filled with any creamed or buttered food.

You can use the same idea for dessert by cutting the figures from sponge, angel food or layer cake. Fill with a chilled or frozen sweet.

Another food, distinctly Easterish, is made by moulding several different flavored and colored gelatin mixtures in egg shells (better collect shells for several days in advance for this purpose).

When chilled and peeled, the gelatin eggs are served in a nest of cross or shredded lettuce and decorated with salad dressing. Or you can turn gelatin eggs into desserts by serving them in nests of tinted cocoanut or cake strips and covering them with a custard sauce.

A Fancy Dessert

For a real fancy dessert, bake cake batter in egg shells set in muffin pans and frost them all over with icings tinted delicately in Easter hues. Serve them plain or roll them in cocoanut.

Use up the rest during the rest of the baking time.

If your cake burns on one side it may be that the oven heat is distributed unevenly, the oven may be overcrowded, the pan may be set too near the sides, or, finally, the oven may be too hot.

For something different, spread one hot waffle with apricot conserve, jam or jelly mixed with white cream cheese. Cover with another hot waffle and serve as a

Chick, Rabbits And Ducks Help Decorations

Or lightly frost an angel food or sponge cake and then decorate it with bunnies, rabbits and chicks fashioned from fondant or from gum drops.

And, last of all, don't forget the favors. They are vital to a children's party. A novel home-made favor is made by filling delicately tinted egg shells with candy eggs and then sealing the tops by pasting tissue paper over the ends. You can even paint faces on the favors and add gay toppers and frilly paper colors. Then, of course, you can always buy unusual little favors.

Bunny's Nest (Tapioca Cream)

1 or 2 eggs yolks
4 cups milk
1-3 cup quick-cooking tapioca
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 or 2 egg whites
1 teaspoon flavoring.
Mix egg yolk with small amount of milk in top of double boiler. Add tapioca, sugar, salt and remaining milk. Place over rapidly boiling water, and cook 10 to 12 minutes after water boils again, stirring frequently. Remove from fire. (Tapioca will be well distributed throughout, but mixture will be thin. Do not overcook.) Beat egg white until just stiff enough to hold shape. Fold hot tapioca mixture gradually into egg white. Cool. (Mixture thickens as it cools.) When slightly cool, stir in flavoring. Chill.

Serve tapioca in sherbet glasses. Arrange moist, sweetened cocoanut, tinted yellow or green, on tapioca cream as nests. Fill centers with colored jelly beans.

Milk, With hot coffee or tea it is delicious for luncheon or supper top-off.

If you have some cream filling left from pie, develop it in to a pudding. Fill buttered individual baking dishes and cover with meringue or coconut. Bake until well browned. This crustless pie is recommended for small children.

Browned rice is delicious with swiss steak or chops. Remove the Flowers up—the way they grow, that's the recommended way to wear your Easter corsage.

By JOAN DURHAM
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Your Easter corsage should be pinned to the left shoulder with the blossoms up, say many florists. (But if you want it to last longer, wear the flowers down, says David Burpee, horticulturist.)

In the Easter parade, mothers and daughters will wear their new spring clothes, of course. Father probably will wear his best dark suit. But if he wants to splurge, too, he'll wear morning clothes—cutaway coat, striped trousers, lightweight gray gloves, gray vest, top hat, ascot tie, wing collar and gray spats.

cooked meat to a warm place and quickly pour into the pan two cups of boiled rice. Cook until well browned and very hot and then pour over the top of meat. Garnish with parsley.

When relining a coat have the lining and coat finished separately at the lower hems. Loosely tack together at the seams. The coat will then hang better and the lining fit more comfortably than if lined and hem of coat are sewed together.

If water boils out of the lower part of your enamelware double boiler, let it cool before adding water. Water poured in while the boiler is very hot may crack the enamel.

Spinach Cookery

To have fresh spinach keep its bright green color when cooked, do this: Wash it thoroughly and, with water still clinging to it, place it in a pan, add no more water, but cover the pan. Cook five minutes or until the leaves begin to wilt, then uncover and continue cooking until the spinach is very tender.

Local Industry Numbered Among Assets in World of Music

Piano Hardware Is Manufactured At Ramsey Plant

Various Parts on Instrument Are Made for Several Prominent Concerns in Nation

Hardware parts produced in the pounding din of factory discord are functioning today in many nations as silent agents of aesthetic qualities which bring poetry and harmony to sound and make it music.

Humble enough in themselves are such parts, but important to one major musical instrument—the piano, and myriads of them have been made in the nearly 30-year-old plant of the Ramsey Piano Hardware Co. of Kingston.

Moods and cadenzas set down in the works of great composers gain their transitional values by dint of these gadgets and they have worked overtime to produce the feverish creations of Tin Pan Alley.

They are a component need in this union of the mechanics and art and were as essential back in the days of the harpsichord and other outmoded piano forms, as they are today on the instruments of modern design. Without them, Bach, Mozart and other great masters could have failed, and perhaps today Beethoven would be playing a violin.

To All Manufacturers

It can be seen then that Kingston harbors an industry of fascinating distinction and it is the only one of its type today in the nation. All types of hardware parts used on the piano are made in the local plant and these are sold to all major manufacturers of the instrument.

The Ramsey Co. was established originally in 1898 in New York city by Charles Ramsey. He came to Kingston in 1910 and set up his business in the structure where it is today at 15-19 Gage street.

Mr. Ramsey died in 1932 and the business is now carried on by his widow, Mrs. Charles Ramsey, with the aid of Harry Kaprielian, who supervises all operations in the plant. Mrs. Ramsey is president and treasurer of the company; Mr. Kaprielian, secretary, and C. J. Heitzmann, assistant treasurer.

Employed by Haas

Mr. Ramsey was employed in his younger years by the Henry Haas Co. in New Jersey where he worked to become a specialist in his line. He remained in the Metropolitan area until the time he decided to come to Kingston and open his own factory.

In 1928, the Kingston concern bought out the New Jersey company and the latter now operates as the only one of its type in the country manufacturing piano hardware for the larger companies.

The local company turns out virtually every type of hardware piece needed in the construction of a piano. These include hinges, pedals, trap work, springs, back bolts and leg sockets, cover catches, desk or rack slides, all kinds of brackets, prop sticks and piano bars for the upright models.

These parts are sold to such companies as Winter & Company of New York; Wurlitzer, of DeKalb, Ill.; Hardman Peck & Company, Aeolian American Corp., Baldwin Co., Kimball, Lester Piano Co. and many others. They sell to about all the companies but Steinway, which has a department to make its own hardware.

The Steinway Co. recently asked an agent of the local plant to call on them, and it may be that some time in the future orders will be placed also by this concern.

New compact piano models of the console style have made the instrument more popular in the American home and their increase in sale has meant something of a boom in the local industry. Some of the models are known also as spinet, musette, minuet and console. They fit well in small apartments and sell at an inviting price.

The console type of piano is from 35 to 55 inches in length and from 22 to 24 inches in width. Manufacturers report that 70 percent of the pianos made today are of console style and last year 140,000 of them were reported sold.

Grand piano sales were reported at 10,000 for last year and while this larger model is holding its own for concert purposes, it is generally out of place in the smaller homes of the nation. Grand pianos sell at an average price of $500 while the average price of the other models is $300.

Annual Business $100,000

The local factory does an average annual business of $100,000 and employs 18 men steadily six days in the week. Some of the men have been employed at the plant since it began and others worked with Mr. Ramsey when he was in New York in 1898.

Tons of metal are used in the plant every year and heavy shipments of the finished products are sent out at regular intervals to fulfill orders which are made by contract. The concern buys about 100,000 pounds of brass a year. Most of this comes from the Leo M. Scully Brass Foundry at Coxsack.

Shipments in steel to the plant average 180,000 pounds a year or six carloads from the Bethlehem Steel Co. and about the same from the American Steel & Wire Co. Cast iron shipments average about 50 tons a year from the Riverside foundry in Pennsylvania.

Other supplies bought by the plant include Egyptian lacquer, of which 500 gallons are used an-

These Men Work So That the Nation's Pianos Will Play

Metal in its cruder forms is transformed into important agents of harmony, rhythm and all that goes to make music in one of the world's popular instruments. Rods and bars of various description, pedals, hinges and more than 150 other parts essential to the proper functioning of a piano are made at the Gage street plant shown above at left. At top right is a department on the upper floor of the factory where the metal pieces are buffed. At left center is one of the workmen at one of the wheels used in the polishing process and at right center, is the room in which the electroplating is done. At bottom left one of the machine operators is shown passing a hinge strip through a machine which makes them secure and to the right workmen are shown at the heavier machines on the lower floor.

usually. The plant uses also about 10,000 wooden boxes a year and these are bought from the New England Box Co. Only two items used at the factory are imported and these are Italian pumice stone and Turkish emery.

More than 150 different hardware items are made at the plant and these are produced on machine units for which dies have been made in 2,439 different patterns. All die patterns are designed and owned by the company.

Weight Five Tons

Most of the machines weigh from five tons or more and cost an average price of $10,000. The small unit made recently for the production of hinges was constructed in the plant at a cost of $11,500.

One man frequently operates two different machines and the various products made are sent from one department to another until they are ready for packing and shipment. Large supplies of many of the parts, which are in more common demand, are kept on hand to fulfill large orders at the immediate convenience of the customer.

The machines are largely of the press variety to provide pressure for boring holes, shaping rods and pressing the metal into various forms.

Some of the hinges are made in long strips. The brass for these comes in large rolls. It is straightened out and cut in the sizes needed to fill an order and then cut on one of the machines at uniform intervals, the open spaces simulating the shape of the hinge.

Extended edges of these hinge strips are rolled into precise shape by another machine and long brass wires are inserted to make the hinge complete. Each operation of these machines must be perfect for the variation by even a fraction of an inch would mean an imperfect product.

Own Specifications

Each customer has his own specifications for the various parts made and the sizes of the various items are changed frequently in fulfilling the orders. Holes on the hinges, for instance, are made at different intervals on several types and this is true for about every part made in the factory.

Brass is cut for the various shapes and sizes needed for the different items on a revolving cutter and other machines shape the hardware pieces by pressure.

Hinges range generally in four types; one of which is known as the fancy variety.

Various peculiar shaped levers which go into what is known as the "trap work" of a piano are shaped expertly by the machines. Many of these rods and pieces of metal, vary in size and shape and some have singular curves and twists, which must fit exactly on the part for which they are meant.

Most of the heavier pressure machines which shape, cut and drill the metal parts are on the main lower floor and the lighter finishing machines are on the second floor.

In the department upstairs metal work which has already been through other processes are buffed on revolving wheels covered with emery strips. These wheels are made of wood and after 200 or 300 metal parts are applied the emery is removed for replacement and the wheels washed.

Parts which need fancy finishing, such as the pedals and bars, are given a plating of brass or nickel. All metal parts are then given a lacquer finish to preserve their polished surface.

Huge tanks to the rear of the lower floor hold hundreds of gallons of the chemical solutions needed for the process of electroplating. Long strips of brass and nickel are inserted in these tanks and when the current is turned on the molecular particles travel to put a nickel or brass surface on the iron pedal or other such part.

Creates Own Power

The plant creates its own power for the electroplating process and the materials for the two solutions used are mixed in this department. Careful watch of the solutions is kept to prevent a damaging separation of the chemical ingredients.

Finished parts are filed for shipment in compartments in the basement and in another storage room above are kept the supplies of metal. A supply of 200,000 pounds of steel is generally kept on hand. This comes in rolled form, flat strips and in half-rolled pieces with flat bottoms.

Sheet brass is usually stored in lots of 25,000 to 30,000 pounds and about 25,000 pounds of iron and 20,000 pounds of solid brass are kept for the making of pedals.

Designs for the various parts, although different in sizes and shapes, have varied but little in general style until recently. The plant now makes a few parts in modernistic design to conform to the latest models pianos which follow the pattern of the current trends in furniture.

A modernistic pedal for the newest type pianos was designed recently by Mr. Kaprielian. Commercial bronze is used on a few of the designs, but largely the pedals are finished in brass and nickel.

The outlook for this year is particularly bright at this time, Mr. Kaprielian said, and the production of this small but important industry, should guarantee steady employment to the workmen for a long time in the future.

UNION CENTER

Union Center, April 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Coutant, Bessie and June Zimmerman called on Jennie Mosher of Creek Locks Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wells, Annie Terpenning and Henry Norris of Ulster Park were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warren Friday of last week.

There will be Easter services in the chapel Sunday evening at 7:30. The Rev. Robert Baines of Kingston, pastor in charge. Sunday School at 10 a. m.

Mrs. C. Warren and Mrs. A. Van Etten called on their sister, Mrs. L. Wynkoop Sunday.

Mrs. J. T. Harris, Jane and Mabel Harris and J. Mahoney of Belleville, N. J., called on Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fowler Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Bertha Bunje is ill.

An alloy of 98 per cent nickel is being used for wire rigging on yachts.

MODENA

Modena, April 8.—Farmers in this section who have planned to sign up for the 1939 Agricultural Conservation program will meet Wednesday, April 12, at Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, with the committee in charge. At a previous meeting held in March, a number of farmers signed for the project.

Local students attending high school at the John Borden High School in Wallkill commenced their Easter vacation on Thursday noon. Studies will be resumed on Monday, April 17.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Modena Methodist Church met Thursday afternoon at Mrs. Margaret Lewis's home with the following in attendance: The Rev. and Mrs. Philip Solbjor, Mrs. William Doolittle, Mrs. William Decker, Mrs. Anna Miller, Mrs. Earl DeWitt and daughter, Mrs. Myron Shultis, Mrs. Wilbur Williams, Mrs. Lester Arnold and the hostess. The next meeting of the society will be Thursday afternoon, May 4, in the social room of the Methodist Church.

The May-June committee appointed in charge of social activities is Mrs. Margaret Lewis, chairman; Mrs. Emory Conklin, Mrs. William Decker, Mrs. Preston Paltridge, Mrs. Orville Seymour.

Mrs. Walter Smith and Mrs. Frank Gulnac, New Paltz, were visitors in this section Wednesday.

Mrs. May Coy was a visitor of relatives in Dutchess county Wednesday.

Miss Edith Paltridge, New York city, spent Saturday evening at her home here.

Lanson Rhinehart is a patient in Kingston Hospital, receiving treatment for an infected knee which he injured recently.

Miss Jennie Bernard of New Paltz is spending the holiday vacation at her home here.

Vernard Wager of Plattkill and Melville Branley of Newburgh were callers in this section Thursday.

Alma Mathiesen is convalescing from scarlet fever.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sherbarth, Miss Lillian Solbjor of New Paltz were supper guests of the Rev. and Mrs. Philip Solbjor at the Methodist parsonage Thursday evening.

Mrs. William Decker visited her brother, Lanson Rhinehart, at Kingston Hospital, Thursday evening.

The Modena Fire Department met Thursday evening to conduct their regular meeting and elect officers of the department for the term of one year, with the following results: Chief engineer, Lester A. Wager, succeeding Harold Paltridge; first assistant, Harry Roosa, succeeding Orville Coy; second assistant, Ira Wager, succeeding Lanson Rhinehart; President Eldred Smith, Secretary Richard Coy, and Treasurer Augustus Weeks re-elected. Vice-presidents, Frank Miller. The officers of chief engineer and first assistant stand for approval by the board of commissioners.

The death rate in the Metropolitan area of New York is falling for pneumonia, tuberculosis, accidents and childbirth, and rising for heart disease, cancer and diabetes.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, April 7.—Miss Finetta Norton, Girl Scout director, has started her work in southern Ulster. She will have her headquarters in New Paltz. Her time will be spent in the following places: Highland, Milton, Marlborough, Wallkill, Gardiner and New Paltz. The district committee, of which Mrs. Virgil B. DeWitt of New Paltz is chairman, met with Miss Norton Monday evening, April 3, at the home of Miss Helen Hasbrouck, the scout leader in New Paltz.

The sophomores of the high school are expecting to hold a dance in the near future.

Mrs. Bouton, wife of Dr. Eugene Bouton, first principal of New Paltz Normal School, has asked Mrs. John U. Gillette to extend an invitation from her class of '89 to attend a garden party at her home in Bloomfield, N. J., in June. Dr. and Mrs. Bouton attended the Normal Alumni reunion at the Waldorf-Astoria on March 11, as did Mrs. Roberts, wife of the late Timothy Roberts, who was the distinguished director of music at New Paltz during Dr. Bouton's stay. Mrs. Gillette, who graduated with the class of '89, which was one of the honored classes at the luncheon and reunion, also made the arrangements for the golden anniversary of the Class of '89 at the Waldorf luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Schoonmaker started on Thursday for a vacation trip to Jacksonville and Miami, Fla.

Mrs. Bowman LeFevre and her sister, Miss Sara Deyo, returned to their home on Wurts avenue Wednesday afternoon after spending the winter at the Huntington Hotel in Kingston.

Miss Lillian Solbjor of Modena visited her sister, Mrs. Donald Sherbarth, recently.

Mrs. Joseph Hasbrouck of Modena attended the Wednesday Club in New Paltz last week.

The Misses Mary E. Rich, Font and Hershey and the Rev. John W. Follette were guests of the Gardiner school last Thursday, when the students put on a program as a culminating activity for the quarter's work. There were other guests present also. The Rev. Mr. Follette was the guest speaker and talked about the Indians of the south. He illustrated his talk with beautiful exhibits of Indian weaving, bead work and pottery. The students gave musical and other numbers and the afternoon's entertainment closed with refreshments.

Robert Park and Dr. D. Beatty have returned from their trip to Bermuda.

Mr. and Mrs. John Christensen and family have moved from the Yeaple house to the house opposite that on Wurts avenue.

The Forest Glen 4-H Club will sponsor a card party April 28.

OH! TO BE A CHAMPION sighs Jimmy Quinn, the 9-year-old bowler from Lodi, Cal., as he eyes a listing of ace bowlers at the tourney in Cleveland. Jimmy has been bowling almost a year and he was the youngest of 23,000 entries in the American Bowling congress. Jimmy had some competition among the juniors from Gordon Brackett, 11, another Lodi bowler.

ARIZONA BOOM for Garner gets its "push" from Kirby L. Vidrine, state legislator shown at Phoenix with posters.

WORLD WAR VINTAGE destroyers which were to have been scrapped are now being reconditioned at the navy base in San Diego, Cal., getting new torpedo tubes and new guns such as this 5-inch being swung aboard. The 49 destroyers, each weighing 1,200 tons, are being overhauled for possible emergency service at a cost of $1,000,000. Their top speed is 35 knots.

AGING gracefully, Queen Mother Mary of England acknowledges the cheers of Britons in this recent photo. She is 72.

FIRST IN YEARS, this baby camel was born to Olga, a two-humped Bactrian camel at the Philadelphia zoo. Olga, who could use a new spring coat, once pulled heavy loads along the Volga river. Her mate, Ivan, died last November.

THERE'S NO 'RUSHING THE GROWLER' as a crew from U. S. Cutter Chelan prepares to blast an iceberg of the type known as a "growler" from Atlantic shipping lanes.

The Characters

Asay Maye, Cape Cod sleuth.
Kay Thayer, girl reporter.

Yesterday: Lane has found a shotgun shell, but Asay isn't bothered by the news.

Chapter 30

A Little Experiment

"In spite of the rain," Asay said, "you can tell that these flowers aren't been watered, or dug around, can't you? The ground's hard as a rock, even a little under the surface. That was a heavy downpour, but it didn't soak in much. It's been pretty dry lately. And here, on this slant, the water runs down an' off into the drive. See where it went?"

"What if the rain didn't soak in? It could have washed out the shell, couldn't it? Asay, don't you see where it was? It washed out, right there," Lane pointed to the hole again.

"It did," Asay said, "because it was stuck there this mornin', or last night, so that a good rain would wash it out. Lane, I'm not tryin' to muss this up, but can't you see? The ground around is hard. Where you found the shell, it's soft. It was dug up, an' the shell stuck in, just as it'd wash. Lane said a number of bitter things.

"Yesterday mornin'," Asay said, "you raked this whole area, didn't you? Monday night you an' me took flashlights, didn't we, over this whole area? We raked it. We walked up an' down around this garden plot. We both said it was hard an' dry. Lane, how could we have missed seein' it? If the ground around were softer, I'd say it could have washed out. But it's hard. And this rain wasn't heavy enough to wash anything out of a hole like that. And if the shell had been buried here before, we'd have found it, see?"

"Listen," Lane said, "can't you figure that this means the case?" "I can figure enough to figure that someone wanted me to think so."

"The Warren girl," Lane said firmly, "sleuth near here, probably in the lee of the apple tree, and shot Mary, Randall, and then tossed the shell—"

"That's another point," Asay said. "Shell. Why not shells, Lane?"

"Tossed the shells aside—'I bet you I can find the other if I dig up this garden—'"

"Why," Asay inquired, "bury 'em separate? Oh, Lane!" "If I dig up this garden, I'll find another. Anyway, then Warren took the gun and beat it to the pond, and tossed the gun in the water. Then she came back and let you in the house, and let you find the woman."

"If it were me," Kay said, "I wouldn't have tossed a shell, or the shells, aside. Not if I intended to dunk the gun in the pond right afterwards. I'd have flipped the lot into the water, all at once. Why complicate things by leaving the shells here?"

"All women," Lane said, "don't think alike. Where are you going, Asay?" "Kay an' I," Asay said, "are going to make a little geographical survey. While we're gone, you dig up the zinnias an' prod around the petunias, an' find the other shell for us, an' I'll bet any sum you want, you'll find it in a nice little hole, just for it. So long."

"Now what," Kay asked as Asay took her elbow and they walked toward the woods, "what is your idea, and what is your theory?"

"A Nice Safe Place," "SOMEONE," Asay told her, "after givin' the problem due thought, come to the conclusion it'd be easier for him if instead of making this a hundred percent mystery, we were sure of a few facts. First point is shells. So Lane finds a shell, in a place I personally grubbed every inch of. Shortly he will find another shell."

Kay walked along a few steps in silence.

"Then you think that the gun I found is planted, too?" "Well," Asay drawled, "now s'pose you wanted to get rid of a gun, yourself. You got two things handy. There's the pond, an' the Atlantic. There's an undertow along shore, an' you got a fifty-fifty chance of havin' your gun go for ever, or havin' some rather find it at low tide. To do a good job with the ocean you ought to dump your gun in the channel, an' that needs a boat. Too hard. The pond's nearer. The pond's also more obvious like, ain't it?"

Kay nodded.

"But now," Asay paused for a moment, "s'pose you decided that Thop's Pond was the ideal spot to get rid of your shotgun in. So what?"

"Why, you'd dump it there?"

"Sure," Asay said with irony. "You'd march right out on that old wharf pilin', an' you'd dump it right off the end, wouldn't you? Right where all the tourists dive, an' the summer cottagers get clean, an' where all the dogs, includin' Amos the wonder dog, get their weekly wash. A nice, safe place. Sure."

"I never thought of that," Kay said honestly. "I suppose you would at least hurl it off a bit."

"At least, you'd go round to the other side where no one bathes, an' it makes off into the real mud, an' you'd pitch the gun as far as you could send it onto the mud bottom. Now, climb up on this stump. Can you see the pond?"

"Of course I can."

"An' you can see the house?"

"In the hollow? Yes. For that matter, I can see the ocean, and the lighthouse, and two coolers off shore, and the Town Hall tower, and the belfry of the First and only Congregational church. What is this, a course in landmarks?"

"Exactly," Asay said, "an' you are Jane Warren. I'll give you an hour to work out the shortest an' most direct route, an' the most passable, from Randall's in the hollow to the ice house. There are two paths. You take 'em an' get familiar with 'em, an' then we'll try a little experiment. Oh, it's raining some more. You mind? If you don't want to do this—"

"I only get about half the idea," Kay said, "but I'm willing to do anything that might help."

"This will, now, this is your affair. Personally, I think the lower path is saner. If you want to make detours, or anything, you can."

"Won't need an hour for that."

"Oh, yes, you will. You pick your path, of Asay said, and learn it. Think how this'll help you, local color. Bay-brees, scrub pines, checkerberries," he picked a leaf and chewed it, "nice Cape air, an' a first-hand acquaintance with Cape rain."

Local Color

At the end of an hour Kay returned to where Asay sat on the stump.

Her legs were scratched with brambles and one shoe string had broken, her face was smudged and her red hair was soaking under her beret.

"Add local color," she observed, "mosquitoes, red ants, two snakes, three skunks—happily not very observant—and a splendid assortment of insect life and pricklers. How did the early settlers take it?"

"I've always wondered," Asay told her. "When you've rested, we'll go back an' try this out."

Lane greeted them with little enthusiasm.

"It's the shotgun the Warren girl bought with that check of Prettyman's," he said. "I called Boston and checked on it."

"That bears out your ideas," Asay said.

"I suppose so. But the other shell—yes, I found it. It was dug in, like you said. What've you been doing?"

"I just been sittin'," Asay said. "Kay, she's been investigatin' our local flora an' fauna."

"What are you up to?"

"Well," Asay said, "this is a continuation of our tamin' project—how you pick up these words! My cousin Syl has takin' to callin' his garbage hole a refuse disposal project. Well, Lane, Kay's goin' to stand by the apple tree, an' say 'Boom,' an' then she's goin' to pretend to dig two shells in—just for fun—an' then she's goin' to run to the ice house at the pond, dump a gun in, an' rush back to the house. In eight minutes I'm goin' to bang the knocker. Let's see if she can be back there to answer. Now look, we'll time this shell diggin', too. Let's see what happens."

Lane hesitated. "But Jane knew this ground," he said at last.

"What are you up to?"

Committee—A body that keeps minutes and wastes hours.
Economy—A way of spending money without getting any fun out of it.
Diplomacy—Lying in state.

Little Willie was late for Sunday school. The parson observed him coming in and inquired the cause. "I was going fishing," the lad said. "But my father wouldn't let me. That's the right kind of a father to have," said the parson. "Did he explain the reason why you couldn't go fishing on Sunday?" "Yes," said the lad. "He said that there wasn't bait enough for two."

A real friend can not hurt you for friendship gives you the rare perception of knowing when your friend is himself or beside himself.

"It ain't that I'm afraid to work, ma'am, but there ain't much doing in my particular line." "Why, what are you?" "I'm a window-box weeder, ma'am."

Never the same flower blooms twice, nor the same heart beats again.
So let us pluck the fairest blossoms today, before the beating of the hearts shall end.
Never the same light glows each day, nor the same tide dawns in the sea.
So let us wake to greet the rarest of the morn, before the shades of eventide pursue.

Boogy—You must be very fond of the movies, Woogy, to go three nights a week.
Woogy—To tell the truth, Boogy, I'm not keen about a lot of the shows they have nowadays, but I have to go to understand what my youngsters are talking about.

HOLLYWOOD NOTE. The Glamour girls and boys let us in on all their little secrets of "how to be one," through the movie magazines, but it takes the dictionary to explain the result, thus: Glamour, n. A delusion. Any artificial interest by which an object is made to appear delusively magnified or glorified.

An aged servant in a Southern household, who must have been in his second childhood, fell into the habit of mumbling to himself. One day his employer politely inquired, "Sam, why are you always talking to yourself?" "Why is Ah talkin' to mahself?" "Yes," why are you always talking to yourself?" "Well, sah, boss, in de fust place, Ah lacks t' talk to a smart man. An' in de second place, Ah jes, natcherly loves to hear a smart man talk."

Local Death Record

Ellenville, April 8—Mrs. Mary Boldt, wife of J. Adam Boldt, died at her home near Woodbourne Friday, March 24 of a stroke. Funeral services were held at St. Mary's Church in Woodbourne on Monday, conducted by the Rev. Father Mullins of Ellenville. Burial was in the Woodbourne cemetery. Mrs. Boldt was born December 27, 1857, in Dutchess county, and married Adam Boldt at Newburgh in 1898. Surviving besides her husband are a daughter, Bessie, and several nieces and nephews.

Ellenville, April 8—Mrs. Florence Hoff Hicks, formerly of Lackawack, died at the Farmingdale Sanitarium, Farmingdale, L. I., March 28, at the age of 39, after a lingering illness. Surviving are her husband, Charles, three children, Charles Jr., 14, Frank, 5, and John, 7, her father, Frank Hoff, of Lackawack, three sisters, Mrs. Louis Stangel, Mrs. Anna Dow of Lackawack, and Mrs. Walter Johnson of Highland Falls, and three brothers, Albert and George Hoff of Ellenville, and William Hoff of New Jersey. Funeral services were held at St. Ignace Church, 100 Park avenue and burial was in Calvary cemetery, Long Island City.

Funeral services for Jesse Relyea, who died at his home, 11 E. St. James street, Tuesday evening, were held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Kukul Memorial Funeral Home, 167 Tremper avenue. The Rev. Mr. Ingersoll, a former pastor of the Wurts Street Baptist Church, of which Mr. Relyea had been a member, officiated. The services were largely attended by friends from Kingston and Newburgh. There was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes. Burial was in Woodlawn Cemetery, Newburgh. Members of the Spanish-American War Veterans of Newburgh acted as bearers. Thursday evening a delegation of members of Kingston Lodge No. 10, F. & A. M., and a delegation of members of Camp of U. S. W. V. No. 29, of Newburgh, visited the funeral home and held their respective ritualistic services for their deceased brother.

Eight Beaten to Death

Bombay, Ind., April 8 (AP)—Eight police officers and jail guards were beaten to death today by a mob of more than 1,000 natives who stormed and sacked the state jail at Ramdurg, capital of Ramdurg State, a small native principality about 300 miles southeast of Bombay.

Blinding headlights are the worst death rays!

In sad and loving memory of our Little Darling Marilyn Florence Williams, whom God called home just a year ago today, April 8, 1938.

I cannot say and I will not say That she is dead, she is just away. With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand She has wandered into an unknown land.

Think of her faring on as dear In the love of there as the love of here. Think of her still as the same I say She is not dead, she is just away. Father, Mother and Brother.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 8 (AP)—European warriest combined with doubtful domestic business prospects to give the stock market another sharp kick today and leading issues dropped to new lows since last June.

Declines ranged from 1 to 5 points generally. A few high-priced shares were off 7 or so. Most pivots were at or near bottom marks of the day at the close.

Selling pressure was pronounced at the opening when the ticker tape ran behind for a while. Although there was a let-down later, the recording machinery again lagged at the finish. Transfers for the two hours approximated 1,500,000 shares. Offerings were principally from home sources, brokers said, with orders from abroad about even up.

With London, Paris and Amsterdam closed through Monday for the Easter holidays, New York was the only world market which could reflect the Italian invasion of Albania, latest move on the foreign checker board.

Bonds softened with stocks, grains at Chicago and Winnipeg, the only important commodity markets open, pointed higher. Prominent stocks in the slide included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Eastman Kodak, Dow Chemical, American Telephone, Johns-Manville, Westinghouse, Philip Morris, Santa Fe, Great Northern, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Du Pont, Anaconda and International Harvester.

Losses running to more than 2 points were chalked up in the curb for Gulf Oil, Electric Bond & Share, Lockheed, and United Light & Power "A."

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 15 Broad street, New York city, branch office 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

Latest Domestic News Encouraging

Although London and Paris financial circles regarded Italy's invasion of Albania as further intensifying the already strained international situation, it was thought last night that nothing more than a verbal protest from the major democratic powers would result. The little kingdom has long been regarded as an Italian sphere of influence and a virtual protectorate.

Some latest reports on domestic news are on the favorable side. Statements coming in from national weekly retailers indicate that March sales were at a higher pace and will probably show the largest for a month over the preceding year since July, 1937. Reports from 21 concerns show total March sales of $169,141,647, which is a gain of 8.5 per cent over the 1938 month. Increasing gains have been shown through the first quarter. Sales for the present quarter were undoubtedly going to show a greater rate of gain, although the east is lagging and estimates for metropolitan stores have been cut to eight per cent, from ten per cent. Department store sales last week were seven per cent above the 1938 week, when Easter was a week later.

Although auto sales are not up to the expectations of some weeks ago, there was a recovery during the last ten days of March from the slump in the middle of the month. Engineering awards construction awards for March totaled $285,566,000, the best since 1931, and 12 per cent higher than February, and also March, 1938. Awards for the first quarter of the year were the best since 1930. Public construction was 61 per cent above the 1938 quarter, but private construction was 27 per cent below last year.

Announcement that Homer Martin, president of the independent division of the UAW, would meet soon with President Green of the AFL, to discuss a basis for affiliation, is seen as an indication that the AFL soon may be found re-entering the automobile labor field. Air Reduction had earnings in the March quarter indicated at approximately 25 to 30 per cent ahead of the same quarter last year.

As a result of the unsettled and threatening conditions in Europe gold continues to pour into this country in increasing amounts. During the week ended March 31 gold worth $192,506,227 was sent to the U. S. These were the largest shipments since the first Czechoslovakian crisis and about four times the size of recent week. As a result of the gold influx funds in the hands of this country now total $3,710,000,000, a record high.

With cost of the September hurricane a factor, net earnings of New England Public Service Co. for 1938 fell off $1,061,130 from 1937. Net for the past year was $1,250,631. A survey of the week's business, accelerated by demands of Easter shoppers, shows that although there was a seasonal advance in sales of men's clothing and furnishings the heaviest buying centered on women's and children's apparel.

Fred Planthaber Trims Julius Tellier for the City Billiard Championship

The winner and still champion, Fred Planthaber! That was the announcement Referee Larry Hyatt would have made (if he had made one) after the final game in the city pocket billiard championship tournament last night at Nick's. Planthaber defeated Julius Tellier 100 to 58 in a well played match that saw Tellier start out with a rush to build up a 20 ball lead and then Planthaber come back to overcome him with a run of 27, another of 17 and another of 9 to score 53 points while Tellier was gathering only two points to add to his total.

Planthaber played his usual careful and colorful game, which, although it is not so nice for the spectators to watch has proven that it's the type of play that pays off in the long grind in an eleven game tournament schedule. Tellier had a couple rather "tough rolls" the first coming after a very clever double kiss shot, when he missed a long table try and gave Planthaber the opening he needed for his 27 run and the opportunity to catch up.

After the match Tellier immediately challenged Fred to a 500 point match to be played in four blocks. The time of the match to be announced later by Nick Kaslich, the man who sponsored the city tournament again this year.

There is a tie in the standings for third place money between Clifton Quick and Bill Hopper. This match will be played off Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Kaslich parlors.

The final standings in the tournament are:

W. L.
Fred Planthaber	11
Julius Tellier	10
Clifton Quick	8
Billy Hopper	8
Dave Brooks	5
Eddie Benoit	5
Walt Jaghers	4
Mike Carpio	4
Myrie Russell	4
John Naccarato	4
Bob East	2
Francis Schilling	1

The tournament high team prize went to Mike Carpio.

Strafaci to Meet Dunkelberger for Amateur Golf Title

Pinehurst, N. C., April 8 (AP)—Either Bobby Dunkelberger, a strapping from High Point, N. C., or Frank Strafaci, of Brooklyn, N. Y., will be the north and south amateur golf champion for a second year.

Strafaci is the defending champion, and Dunkelberger won the tournament in 1937. Both moved into the 36-hole title round of the 1939 tournament with victories yesterday.

Strafaci beat Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Conn., 2 up. Dunkelberger defeated Charles Whitehead of South Orange, N. J., one up.

Dunkelberger, winner of the French amateur crown last summer, led Whitehead three up at the ninth and held the advantage through the 15th. Whitehead won the 16th with an eagle three and the 17th with a par three. They halved the 18th.

The Carolinian, who had shot par or better throughout the tournament, has a 71, one under par, for the round.

Strafaci, former public links champion, fought an up-hill battle. He trailed Chapman for four holes at the sixth, was two down at the ninth and squared the match at the 15th. He went into a lead with a birdie four at the 16th.

They halved the 17th. Then Strafaci had a fine second shot to the home green and held a three to win. His medal score for the round was 75.

Knights and Elks To Be Honored at Banquet April 15

On Saturday evening, April 15, at 9 o'clock, the International Tournament Association will officially close the 1938-1939 season with a banquet at Chic's Rendezvous in Glascow.

The committee on arrangements has completed plans for what promises to be a most enjoyable evening.

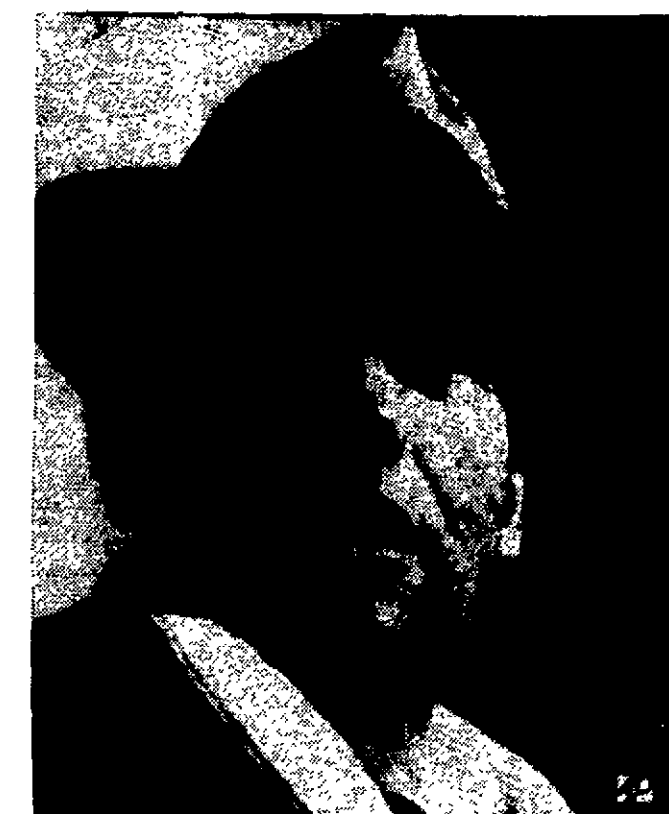

Trophies will be awarded to the Knights of Columbus and the Elks Club for the excellent record made by each team during the present season. Reservations will close April 13, and tickets may be secured from any of the following committee members: Frank Weiss, Ray Whitbeck, Vincent Markie, Oscar Newkirk, Sid Ellinger, Bill Rothery, Ed Wortman, Jack Greene, William Brophy and Andrew Sweeney.

Jack Feye Trophy To Be Awarded to 'Chappie' Cooper

At a special meeting of the Church Basketball League, held last night at the Y. M. C. A., "Chappie" Cooper was voted the most valuable player to his team during the past season. Chappie played with the First Dutch five. This vote automatically wins the Jack Feye trophy which will probably be awarded at the annual banquet which will be held in the near future.

Bears May Outrow Washington April 15

They Say '39 Husky Crew Simply 'Hasn't Got It'

Washington Coach Al Ulbricksen has the look of a man awaiting execution.

Seattle, (AP)—Washington's plethora of rowing victories over California may come to an end about 3 p. m. April 15, on the Oakland estuary. They're saying around the Washington crew house the boys "just haven't got it." They don't even react like orthodox human beings," graying Coach Al Ulbricksen says. "They're up one day and down the next. Their physical condition is good, but their attitude between the ears is lousy. They regard workouts as just a job of work. They're punching the clock instead of pounding their oars."

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

Orlando, Fla.—Finally getting alarmed at the failure of "First Baseman Jimmy Wadell to shape up as a satisfactory replacement for Zeke Bonura, sold to the New York Giants, the Washington Senators are reported casting around for someone else. Bert Haas, a property of the Brooklyn Dodgers, is getting most of the attention.

Little Rock, Ark.—The New York Yankee tourists are kidding Jake Powell and Joe Gallagher about writing ahead to opposing managers asking for them to use left-handed pitchers against the world champions. New York has faced eight southpaws in five games and Marce Joe McCarthy, following his announced plan, has started Powell and Gallagher in the outfield against all southpaws. Meanwhile George Selkirk, who gets his chance against right-handers, moaned, "I never knew there were so many southpaws in the world."

Baton Rouge, La.—The New York Giants had an especial reason for wanting to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates in an exhibition game today. It is the only warmup the Terrible Terrymen will have against a National League team. But Manager Bill Terry himself wasn't present. He directed a second team against Memphis in his home town.

Augusta, Ga.—Rookie Pete Reiser has tamed down some since he startled the Brooklyn Dodgers and a lot of other people by batting a perfect 1,000 his first eight times at bat. But he's still doing an even 500 for a total of 30 bases in 30 times at bat, which is just about par for any course. He got a double and single in three chances yesterday.

Record Entry List For State Bowling Honors at Elmira

Elmira, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—Bowlers from eight cities, vanguard of a record entry list, tuned up today for the inaugural of the 17th New York state championship tournament.

And tuning up with them was Elmira Mayor J. Maxwell Beers, who will roll the first ball when five-man squads from Albany, Auburn, Endicott, Watford, Syracuse, Plattsburgh, Elmira and Mahopac, take the alleys at 7:30 p. m., tonight.

A record entry list of 1,869 singles bowlers and 339 doubles teams was looked for the tournament, which will continue through May 15. The five-man entry, 611 teams, was second highest in the history of the tournament. A total of 892 quintets competed last year in Albany.

Four of the five championship winners of 1938 were entered in defense of their titles: Marksons Furniture of Syracuse in the five-man competition, A. Reynolds of Oswego in the singles, and G. Young of Hempstead in the all-events.

The 1938 doubles champions, L. Santori and W. Forslund of New York, who set a tournament record of 1,376, were not entered. Other tournament records at which bowlers will begin to snipe tonight are: Five-man, 3,138 by Thums White Elephants of New York in 1933; singles, 764 by R. Wallace of Utica in 1923, and all-events, 2,066 by Young in 1938.

Learn Secrets of A Radiant Personality

Every Girl Can Be Glamorous. An admiring circle wherever she is, at a dress-up party or at a picnic—with a smudge on her nose. Which goes to show you don't need orchids and soft music to be glamorous. Know the secret of a radiant, captivating personality—the inner qualities that charm! Boys flock around the girl who treats life as an adventure, cultivates a happy smile. A gay "What fun this is!" attitude makes a casual sofa at the corner drugstore seem like dinner at the Ritz—and it's the best way to be first choice for the dress-up dates too. Don't worry about the impression you're making. Instead show people what a fine impression they've made on you. A word of praise, an admiring glance will win the heart of many a man. And do your best for the external "you." Good posture makes you a picture of grace and poise. Droop and you're awkward insignificant. Track down your weaknesses! Discover your good traits, how

Easter Parade Will Blend A Dozen New Fashion Trends

Gentle Feminine Mode To Set The Pace

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Fashion Editor

When American women throng "Fifth Avenues" from New York to San Diego in the Easter morning parade, the clothes they wear will reflect a dozen different fashion trends.

A pretty feminine mode, built on a profile with gentle womanly curves will lead the colorful pageant. But within and after that leading contingent will come designs of great variety and contrast.

Ingenuous little girl frocks will pass mature bustle dresses. Short full skirts will walk beside some slim straight ones and 1880 bonnets will appear with modern "glass straw" toques of semi-transparent plastic.

Trim fitted dark redingotes will contrast with slim straight box coats. Dresses will vary from white collared little girl frocks to polka dotted surah and gingham checked silk designs. Suits will include dress and jacket combinations as well as that standby, the tailleur (made of sheer wool this year). Printed frocks will be worn both with dark long coats and short, colored box ones.

But nearly all will reflect one universal trend—a vogue for color. Dark marine green, dark bright blue, beige, caramel, rust and gray costumes will appear as well as the classic navy blue and black. More color will be seen in accents.

There will be some colored shoes, for instance—navy blue, wine, tan and rust colored ones. Black patent leather shoes will also be there in numbers. Most of the shoes will follow the designs of sabots, open-toed or open-backed sandals and pumps.

Gloves of white or colored dooskin, of plaid or checked taffeta to match a hat or petticoat will appear on smart hands.

Some of the bags which are going to church with Easter costumes continue the vogue for colored accents. Soft green, amber, blue and caramel (as well as the classic black, brown and navy) color the full-finished alligator, suede and calf leathers which make a number of them. Big pouches (commonplace and often rather soft in design) and square, handled bags are favorites.

Costume jewels may add color, too. Enamel "ribbons," colored

Dressed for the Easter parade, the chic New Yorker on the left wears a green, white, red and black printed frock and black wool twill redingote. Her alligator bag and crown of her sailor are white. More white accents appear in the flower-covered hat, frilly blouse and gloves worn with the sheer navy blue wool suit on the right. Orchids add a dash of color.

Over her printed frock of tan, green and white crepe this young Manhattanite wears a short, tan wool coat, with yellow and brown cybaldium orchids on the lapel.

Chartreuse flowered pillbox, gloves and bag add color accents to this Easter coat of black lightweight wool worn with a printed frock. A baum marten scarf tops the coat.

head ropes and bubble pearls make necklaces which will smarten a number of costumes. Fascinating flower pots set with multi-colored stones and antique silver motifs will accent lapels.

Again the color note will appear in Easter bonnets, bright with gay flowers, ribbons and veils and in swishing petticoats of plain or striped taffeta.

By contrast hundreds of smart dark costumes will be accented with stark white accents—crisp puke sailors and collars, frivolous white organdy blouses and guimpes and doeskin gloves.

To avoid a too-colorful effect in their clothes, smart women are choosing costumes of a dark basic color and accenting them with one—or at most—two lighter shades.

Here are some of the costumes chick New Yorkers have assembled for the Fifth Avenue pageant:

Navy blue redingote shoes and

bag, blue and white printed frock, blue straw cloche with white flowers massed on the crown, white gloves.

Marine green coat and frock, cafe-au-lait scarf, gloves and sailor hat banded in green and cafe-au-lait plaid taffeta ribbon, jeweled lapel accent.

Black bolero suit, soft yellow blouse and yellow flowered toque, chamomile-colored doeskin gloves, black patent leather bag and shoes.

Rally The Kids And Let Them Hunt Eggs

Easter Parties For Children Are Fun

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

An Easter party for children is almost an essential of your spring entertainment program.

You'll probably have youngsters of about one age at your party. And if yours is a party for little tots you really should make an hunt for Easter eggs part of the program. You'll find it will be as well liked as the refreshments or the favors—and that means real enjoyment.

All Shapes, Colors and Sizes. Before the party hide as many kinds, shapes and colors of eggs as you can think of all over the place—upstairs, downstairs, even out in the garage. You can buy candy eggs, large and small, and you can get wooden eggs, too, brightly colored, if you look around in the stores.

Besides those, of course, you'll need plenty of home-dyed, honest-to-goodness eggs, too. Paint funny faces and scroll designs on them. The party will go over better, too if you let your own children do their share of decorating and hiding the eggs.

Then, when your guests are assembled, give each one a tarlatan bag and a score card and let them set forth. Rate the scoring by colors of the eggs or some other simple system—count 15 for a gold egg, 12 for a silver one, 10 for a red one and so on.

When it's time for refreshments let the guests sit right on the floor, if they're in the 6-year-old class or thereabouts. For older children, it's probably better to arrange them at tables, decorated with your Easter rabbit, nests, flowers and all the rest of the holiday trappings.

A bunny's nest, tapoca cream with trimmings, is a fine Easter party dessert.

Ducks and Chickens. Now for the actual refreshments:

Creamed chicken served in chicken or duck bread cases with a tiny fluffy chick on top will delight all ages of youngsters. Or cream cheese, egg and lettuce or peanut butter sandwiches cut into rabbit, duck or chick shapes will go well with hot cocoa, marshmallow topped.

For dessert, orange sherbet and fancy barnyard and animal cookies will make a hit.

To the bread cases for creamed

foods, cut ducks (or chickens) from 2-inch-thick slices of bread. Remove the centers to form little containers. Toast or serve plain, filled with any creamed or buttered food.

You can use the same idea for dessert by cutting the figures from sponge, angel food or layer cake. Fill with a chilled or frozen sweet.

Another food, distinctly Easterish, is made by moulding several different flavored and colored gelatin mixtures in egg shells (better collect shells for several days in advance for this purpose).

When chilled and peeled, the gelatin eggs are served in a nest of crisp or shredded lettuce and decorated with salad dressing. Or you can turn gelatin eggs into desserts by serving them in nests of tinted cocoanut or cake strips and covering them with a custard sauce.

A Fancy Dessert. For a real fancy dessert, bake cake batter in egg shells set in muffin pans and frost them all over with icings tinted delicately in Easter hues. Serve them plain or roll them in cocoanut.

Chick, Rabbits And Ducks Help Decorations

Or lightly frost an angel food or sponge cake and then decorate it with bunnies, rabbits and chicks fashioned from fondant or from gum drops.

And, last of all, don't forget the favors. They are vital to a children's party. A novel home-made favor is made by filling delicately tinted egg shells with candy eggs and then sealing the tops by pasting tissue paper over the ends. You can even paint faces on the favors and add gay toppers and frilly paper colors. Then, of course, you can always buy unusual little favors.

Bunny's Nest (Tapoca Cream)

1 or 2 eggs yolks
4 cups milk
1-3 cup quick-cooking tapioca
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 or 2 egg whites
1 teaspoon flavoring.
Mix egg yolk with small amount of milk in top of double boiler. Add tapioca, sugar, salt and remaining milk. Place over rapidly boiling water, and cook 10 to 12 minutes after water boils again, stirring frequently. Remove from fire. (Tapioca will be well distributed throughout, but mixture will be thin. Do not overcook.) Beat egg white until just stiff enough to hold shape. Fold hot tapioca mixture gradually into egg white. Cool. (Mixture thickens as it cools.) When slightly cool, stir in flavoring. Chill.
Serve tapioca in sherbet glasses. Arrange moist, sweetened cocoanut, tinted yellow or green, on tapioca cream as nests. Fill centers with colored jelly beans.

Flowers up—the way they grow, that's the recommended way to wear your Easter corsage.

By JOAN DURHAM
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Your Easter corsage should be pinned to the left shoulder with the blossoms up, say many florists. (But if you want it to last longer, wear the flowers down, says David Burpee, horticulturist.)

In the Easter parade, mothers and daughters will wear their new spring clothes, of course. Father probably will wear his best dark suit. But if he wants to splurge, too, he'll wear morning clothes—cutaway coat, striped trousers, lightweight gray gloves, gray vest, top hat, ascot tie, wing collar and gray spats.

cooked meat to a warm place and quickly pour into the pan two cups of boiled rice. Cook until well browned and very hot and then pour over the top of meat. Garnish with parsley.

When relining a coat have the lining and coat finished separately at the lower hems. Loosely coat together at the seams. The coat will then hang better and the lining fit more comfortably than if lining and hem of coat are sewed together.

If water boils out of the lower part of your enamelware double boiler, let it cool before adding water. Water poured in while the boiler is very hot may crack the enamel.

Spinach Cookery. To have fresh spinach keep its bright green color when cooked, do this: Wash it thoroughly and, with water still clinging to it, place it in a pan, add no more water, but cover the pan. Cook five minutes or until the leaves begin to wilt, then uncover and continue cooking until the spinach is very tender.

Fabled Jewelry. Paris (AP)—The latest in jewelry gadgets takes its inspiration from the fables of La Fontaine. Helm is lifting a number of little animals out of their Fontaine setting and putting them into costume jewelry. The wolf and the lamb, the fox and the grapes, the Raven and the fox are all standing by.

Helps for Housewives

To obtain a standard cup measurement, set the cup on a flat surface and then fill it. A whole cup should be brimming full. Holding a cup in the hand for filling will not give true measurements.

Possibly you can increase breakfast cereal interest if you mix a little brown sugar and vanilla with the cereal when served. Then let the youngsters have more sugar and cream or milk poured from a gay, unusual individual pitcher. There are all sorts of useful tricks which you can employ with a little planning.

Do you want a different glaze for baked hams? Here is a delicious flavor blend: Mix one cup apple sauce with one-half cup brown sugar, two tablespoons vinegar and a teaspoon of cinnamon. Spread half of this over top of ham after it has baked an hour.

Use up the rest during the rest of the baking time.

If your cake burns on one side it may be that the oven heat is distributed unevenly, the oven may be overcrowded, the pan may be set too near the sides, or, finally, the oven may be too hot.

For something different, spread one hot waffle with apricot conserve, jam or jelly, mixed with white cream cheese. Cover with another hot waffle and serve as a pie. With hot coffee or tea it is delicious for luncheon or supper top-off.

If you have some cream filling left from pie, develop it in to a pudding. Fill buttered individual baking dishes and cover with meringue or coconut. Bake until well browned. This crustless pie is recommended for small children.

Browned rice is delicious with swiss steak or chops. Remove the

SOCIETIES CLUBS PERSONALS

Post Lenten Season Begins Busy Week

With the lifting of the ban on social activities which during the Lenten season, a week of festivities ushered in the post Lenten season beginning Monday evening with the annual Easter Monday Ball at the Municipal Auditorium, sponsored by the Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary.

The College Women's Club will meet Tuesday evening at The Huntington and will be addressed by Ruth Lina Fraser, who will speak on "Life of the Chinese Women."

Wednesday evening a good proportion of Kingston concert lovers will motor to Newburgh for the recital by Nelson Eddy, baritone of stage and radio fame, sponsored by the Three Arts Society as a special added feature to the regular series of winter concerts.

On Thursday afternoon the Married Women's Club will entertain at tea and have as its guest speaker, Dr. Joseph S. G. Bolton, professor of drama and English at Skidmore College. Dr. Bolton will speak on "Modern Drama."

Friday evening will be the annual spring complimentary concert by the Mendelssohn Club under the direction of Dr. Elmer Tidmarsh. This year the club will have as guest soloists, Mary and Virginia Drane, duo violin recitalists. Dr. Charles Gilbert Spross, honorary member of the club, will also be present and will play several piano selections.

To round off a busy week of concerts and lectures, the Wiltwyck Golf Club will sponsor a dance Saturday night at the Governor Clinton Hotel, ending a busy Easter week.

Williams-Muller

Miss Marianne Kuring-Muller of Rosendale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Muller of Reichenbach, Germany, and Walter G. Williams of Williams Lake, Rosendale, were united in marriage this morning at 11 o'clock at Williams Lake Lodge by the Rev. August F. Marlier, pastor of All Saints Episcopal Church, Rosendale. They were attended by Miss Fannie Williams, sister of the groom and Fred G. Ross of North Bergen, N. J. Following a wedding trip to New Hampshire and Canada, where the couple will enjoy skiing, Mr. and Mrs. Williams will reside at Williams Lake.

The bride was born and educated in Germany and for six years has been residing in Rosendale with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Ziegler.

The groom has a Bachelor of Accounts in Business Administration from Rider College from which he was graduated in 1932. He is a member of Alpha Sigma Epsilon and Delta Sigma Pi. He is an instructor in the Moran School of Business, this city, and is chairman of the entertainment committee of the Rosendale Township Association and vice president of the Telemark Ski Club of Rosendale.

SOFT SIX-GORE "CLASSIC"!

MARIAN MARTIN

Look prettier than you have in years—in a SOFT, easily-made, shirtmaker-type dress like this! It has the new demi-tailored lines that are ultra-chic for "dates".... whether it's a size 14 or a size 42. You button up the bodice with crystal buttons... then you add a flash of white lace to touched collar and short sleeves, because lace is one of the most fashionable of trims. Then, whether you tie the sash-like belt at back or front, you know the effect is debonair. The skirt has six gores, and ripples softly when a spring zephyr comes along. Use either printed or solid-tone material.

Pattern 9022 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric and 2 1/2 yards lace edging.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coin for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Send today for the very popular MARIAN MARTIN BOOK OF SPRING PATTERNS! You can solve ALL your spring sewing problems as you look it over from cover to cover. Every style is flattering and easy to stitch, whether for children, juniors, misses or matrons. The grand choice stresses party favorites, bridal attire, all-party frocks, sand-sea clothes... with Budget Ideas highlighted! BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. PATTERN FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Send your order to the Kingston Daily Freeman, Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th street, New York, N. Y.

MYERS—At Shokan, N. Y., Wednesday, April 5, 1939, Dorothy, beloved wife of Frank A. and loving mother of Mrs. Evelyn Mahoney of Kingston, N. Y., and Arthur J. of Shokan, N. Y., sister of Mrs. Katherine Harford of Hurley, Mrs. Mary Demarte of Spring Valley, N. Y. Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral from her late home Monday at 9:15 a. m., thence to St. John's Church, Stony Hollow, where at 10 o'clock a high Mass of requiem will be celebrated for the repose of her soul. Interment in St. Mary's cemetery.

In sad and loving memory of our little darling Marilyn Florence Williams, whom God called home just a year ago today, April 8, 1938.

I cannot say and I will not say that she is dead, she is just away. With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand
She has wandered into an unknown land
Think of her faring on as dear
In the love of there as the love of here
Think of her still as the same I say
She is not dead, she is just away.
Father, Mother and Brother.

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 8 (AP)—European worst combined with doubtful domestic business prospects to give the stock market another sharp kick today and leading issues dropped to new lows since last June.

Declines ranged from 1 to 5 points generally. A few high-priced shares were off 7 or so. Most pivots were at or near bottom marks of the day at the close.

Selling pressure was pronounced at the opening when the ticker tape ran behind for a while. Although there was a let-down later, the recording machinery again lagged at the finish. Transfers for the two hours approximated 1,500,000 shares.

Offerings were principally from home sources, brokers said, with orders from abroad about even.

With London, Paris and Amsterdam closed through Monday for the Easter holidays, New York was the only world market which could reflect the Italian invasion of Albania, latest move on the foreign checker board.

Bonds softened with stocks, grains at Chicago and Winnipeg, the only important commodity markets open, pointed higher.

Prominent stocks in the slide included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Eastman Kodak, Dow Chemical, American Telephone, Johns-Manville, Westinghouse, Philip Morris, Santa Fe, Great Northern, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Du Pont, Anaconda and International Harvester.

Losses running to more than 2 points were chalked up in the rub for Gulf Oil, Electric Bond & Share, Lockheed and United Light & Power "A."

Tuxedo Priest Dies

Tuxedo Park, N. Y., April 8 (AP)—The Rev. Martin E. Fahy, 55, former chaplain and treasurer of the Catholic Actors Guild, died last night at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel rectory. Father Ambrose J. Brochu, his assistant, said death was due to tuberculosis and complications. The Rev. Fr. Fahy was a native of New Haven, Conn., and a graduate of Holy Cross College. He studied theology at St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie, N. Y., and was ordained in 1913. Following post graduate studies at Catholic University, Washington, he became assistant priest of Our Lady of Lourdes Church in Manhattan. During the World War he served as chaplain of the 28th Division in France.

In Police Court

Raymond Dugan of 20 Newkirk avenue, arrested Friday evening on a charge of disorderly conduct in using vile language, was sentenced to 10 days in jail. Joseph Nolan, a stranger, who said he had no home, was given an opportunity of leaving the city. He had been arrested on a vagrancy charge.

You can never put a lady on the spot for anything she has said, she always has the sweetest way out.

Latest Domestic News Encouraging

Although London and Paris financial circles regarded Italy's invasion of Albania as further intensifying the already strained international situation, it was thought last night that nothing more than a verbal protest from the major democratic powers would result. The little kingdom has long been regarded as an Italian sphere of influence and a virtual protectorate.

Some latest reports on domestic news are on the favorable side. Statements coming in from nationwide retailers indicate that March sales were at a higher pace and will probably show the largest for a month over the preceding year since July, 1937. Reports from 21 concerns show total March sales of $169,141,647, which is a gain of 8.5 per cent over the 1938 month. Increasing gains have been shown through the first quarter. Sales for the present pre-Easter week will undoubtedly show a greater rate of gain, although the east is lagging and estimates for metropolitan stores have been cut to eight per cent, from ten per cent. Department store sales last week were seven per cent above the 1938 week, when Easter was a week later.

Although auto sales are not up to the expectations of some weeks ago, there was a recovery during the last ten days of March from the slump in the middle of the month.

Engineering awards construction awards for March totaled $285,566,000, the best since 1931, and 12 per cent higher than February, and also March, 1938. Awards for the first quarter of the year were the best since 1930. Public construction was 61 per cent above the 1938 quarter, but private construction was 27 per cent below last year.

Announcement that Homer Martin, president of the independent division of the UAW, would meet soon with President Green of the AFL, to discuss a basis for affiliation, is seen as an indication that the AFL soon may be found re-entering the automobile labor field.

Air Reduction had earnings in the March quarter indicated at approximately 25 to 30 per cent ahead of the same quarter last year.

As a result of the unsettled and threatening conditions in Europe gold continues to pour into this country in increasing amounts. During the week ended March 31 gold worth $192,536,227 has sent to the U. S. These were the largest shipments since the first Czechoslovakian crisis and about four times the size of recent weeks. As a result of the gold influx funds in the banks of this country now total $3,710,000,000, a record high.

With cost of the September hurricane a factor, net earnings of New England Public Service Co. for 1938 fell off $1,061,130 from 1937. Net for the past year was $1,250,631.

A survey of the week's business, accelerated by demands of Easter shoppers, shows that although there was a seasonal advance in sales of men's clothing and furnishings the heaviest buying centered on women's and children's apparel.
